

Small talk is a social skill. It is used to make conversation with people you have just met or don't know well. A good way to make small talk is to ask questions.

Here are three reasons why:

1. People enjoy talking about themselves.
2. It's easier for you. You can listen more than talk.
3. You might learn something new or interesting.

|----------------------------------|---|
| What do people talk about? | Safe topics like the weather, current location, hometown, public transport, languages, hobbies and interests, sports, food and drink, the weekend, travel, music, films, local events, the news, etc. |
| Where do people make small talk? | Anywhere - in an office, a lift, at a bus stop, at an airport, in a cafe, at a party, before a meeting, etc. |
| Why do people make small talk? | To be friendly, fill time or get to know someone. |

Example small talk questions

Weather

- Isn't the weather nice today?
- It's a lovely day, isn't it?

Current location

- Have you been here before?
- What do you think of this place?

Write two small talk questions for each topic.

Useful question prompts: Do you...? Are you...? Have you (ever)...? What's your...? What do you...? How often do you...? Where do/are you...?

Music, Brain, and Rehabilitation: Emerging Therapeutic Applications and Potential Neural Mechanisms Teppo Särkämö, Eckart Altenmüller, Antoni Rodríguez-Fornells, Isabelle Peretz, 2016-08-05

Music is an important source of enjoyment learning and well being in life as well as a rich powerful and versatile stimulus for the brain With the advance of modern neuroimaging techniques during the past decades we are now beginning to understand better what goes on in the healthy brain when we hear play think and feel music and how the structure and function of the brain can change as a result of musical training and expertise For more than a century music has also been studied in the field of neurology where the focus has mostly been on musical deficits and symptoms caused by neurological illness e g amusia musicogenic epilepsy or on occupational diseases of professional musicians e g focal dystonia hearing loss Recently however there has been increasing interest and progress also in adopting music as a therapeutic tool in neurological rehabilitation and many novel music based rehabilitation methods have been developed to facilitate motor cognitive emotional and social functioning of infants children and adults suffering from a debilitating neurological illness or disorder Traditionally the fields of music neuroscience and music therapy have progressed rather independently but they are now beginning to integrate and merge in clinical neurology providing novel and important information about how music is processed in the damaged or abnormal brain how structural and functional recovery of the brain can be enhanced by music based rehabilitation methods and what neural mechanisms underlie the therapeutic effects of music Ideally this information can be used to better understand how and why music works in rehabilitation and to develop more effective music based applications that can be targeted and tailored towards individual rehabilitation needs The aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research across multiple disciplines with a special focus on music brain and neurological rehabilitation We encourage researchers working in the field to submit a paper presenting either original empirical research novel theoretical or conceptual perspectives a review or methodological advances related to following two core topics 1 how are musical skills and attributes e.g. perceiving music, experiencing music emotionally, playing or singing affected by a developmental or acquired neurological illness or disorder for example stroke, aphasia, brain injury, Alzheimer's disease, Parkinson's disease, autism, ADHD, dyslexia, focal dystonia or tinnitus and 2. what is the applicability, effectiveness and mechanisms of music based rehabilitation methods for persons with a neurological illness or disorder. Research methodology can include behavioural, physiological and/or neuroimaging techniques and studies can be either clinical group studies or case studies. Studies of healthy subjects are applicable only if their findings have clear clinical implications.

Small Talk William E. Ross, 1993.

The relationship between music and language Lutz Jäncke, Traditionally music and language have been treated as different psychological faculties. This duality is reflected in older theories about the lateralization of speech and music in that speech functions were thought to be localized on the left and music functions on the right hemisphere. But with the advent of modern brain imaging techniques and the improvement of neurophysiological measures to investigate brain functions, an entirely new view on the neural and psychological underpinnings of music and speech has evolved. The main point of convergence in the findings of these new studies is that music and speech functions have many aspects in common and that several neural modules are similarly involved in speech and music. There is also emerging evidence that speech functions can benefit from music functions and vice versa. This new research field has accumulated a lot of new information and it is therefore timely to bring together the work of those researchers who have been most visible, productive and inspiring in this field and to ask them to present their new work or provide a summary of their laboratory's work.
