Jewish Life in Small-Town America Lee Shai Weissbach, 2008-10-01 In this book Lee Shai Weissbach offers the first comprehensive portrait of small town Jewish life in America Exploring the history of communities of 100 to 1000 Jews the book focuses on the years from the mid nineteenth century to World War II Weissbach examines the dynamics of 490 communities across the United States and reveals that smaller Jewish centers were not simply miniature versions of larger communities but were instead alternative kinds of communities in many respects The book investigates topics ranging from migration patterns to occupational choices from Jewish education and marriage strategies to congregational organization The story of smaller Jewish communities attests to the richness and complexity of American Jewish history and also serves to remind us of the diversity of small town society in times past

Elazar, 1987-06-29 What is the distinctive character of

America's cities How have our metropolitan regions evolved since the Colonial period What effect will local politics have on the future of the American city These are the questions Daniel J Elazar addresses in this third volume of his highly acclaimed Cities of the Prairie trilogy Recognizing the growing alienation from local institutions on the part of city dwellers nation wide Elazar explains why the restoration of local attachments should be a matter of first priority Co published with Jerusalem

Countryside Emery N. Castle, 1995 The literature on rural America to the extent that it exists has largely been written by urban based scholars perpetuating out of date notions and stereotypes or by those who see little difference between rural and agricultural concerns As a result the real rural America remains much misunderstood neglected or ignored by scholars and policymakers alike In response Emery Castle offers The Changing American Countryside a volume that will forever change how we look at this important subject Castle brings together the writings of eminent scholars from several disciplines and varying backgrounds to take a fresh and comprehensive look at the forgotten hinterlands These authors examine the role of non metropolitan people and places in the economic life of our nation and cover such diverse issues as poverty industry the environment education family social problems ethnicity race religion gender government public policy and regional diversity The authors are especially effective in demonstrating why rural America is so much more than just agriculture It is in fact highly diverse complex and interdependent with urban America and the international market place Most major rural problems they contend simply cannot be effectively addressed in isolation from their urban and international connections To do so is misguided and even hazardous when one fourth of our population and ninety seven per cent of our land area is rural

Together these writings not only provide a new and more realistic view of rural life and public policy but also suggest how the field of rural studies can greatly enrich our understanding of national life Working Hard and Making Do Margaret K. Nelson, Joan Smith, 1999-05-24 A well crafted carefully researched study that will add a new dimension to the ongoing discussion about the impact of economic restructuring on families and communities This well written carefully researched book challenges the conventional notion of the formal and informal economy as polarized alternatives The working class households Nelson and Smith studied rely simultaneously on both sectors and inequality among these households is shaped not by dependence on one rather than the other but by access to desirable positions in both Their gender analysis exposes the distinctive economic contributions of men and women to the working class household and the ways in which gender inequality shapes survival strategies Ruth Milkman author of Farewell to the Factory The New American Cyclopaedia, 1870 American Dictionary of Printing and Bookmaking Wesley Washington Pasko, 1894 The American City Arthur Hastings Grant, Harold Sinley Bittenheim, 1944 What the Small Town Needs Clarence W.
