Jewish Childhood in the Roman World Hagith Sivan, 2018-05-17 This is the first full treatment of Jewish childhood in the Roman world. It follows minors into the spaces where they lived, learned, played, slept, and died, and examines the actions and interaction of children with other children, with close kin, adults, and with strangers both inside and outside the home. A wide range of sources are used, from the rabbinic rules to the surviving painted representations of children from synagogues, and due attention is paid to broader theoretical issues and approaches. Hagith Sivan concludes with four beautifully reconstructed autobiographies of specific children: from a boy living and dying in a desert cave during the Bar Kokhba revolt to an Alexandrian girl forced to leave her home and wander through the Mediterranean in search of a respite from persecution. The book tackles the major questions of the relationship between Jewish childhood and Jewish identity, which remain important to this day. Stone and Dung, Oil and Spit Jodi Magness, 2011-04-12 The intersection of archaeology and text in the late Second Temple period. 2 Purifying the body and hands 3 Creeping and swarming creatures: locusts, fish, dogs, chickens, and pigs 4 Household vessels: pottery, oil lamps, glass, stone, and dung 5 Dining customs and communal meals 6 Sabbath observance and fasting 7 Coins 8 Clothing and tzitzit 9 Oil and spit 10 Toilets and toilet habits 11 Tombs and burial customs 12 Epilogue: the aftermath of 70. The Journal of Jewish Studies, 2002

The Dead Sea Scrolls Charlotte Hempel, 2010-07-26 This volume presents the proceedings of an international conference of the same title held at the University of Birmingham in 2007. The contributors are drawn from the ranks of leading international specialists in the field, writing alongside promising younger scholars. The volume includes studies on the contribution of the Scrolls to Second Temple Jewish history, the archaeological context, the role of the temple and its priesthood, as well as treatments on selected texts and issues. These proceedings offer a timely and up-to-date assessment of the Dead Sea Scrolls and the material remains unearthed at Qumran in their wider context, and not infrequently challenge prevailing lines of interpretation. Helen Jacobus has won the Sean Dever Memorial Prize with her contribution to this volume. Commenting on the Dever prize, Professor Carol Meyers of Duke University, North Carolina, said: "The judges thought highly of Helen's meticulous scholarship and careful presentation of the data in her discussion of the zodiac and its role in Jewish calendars."

Beruria the Tannait Dalia Hoshen, 2007-06-15 This work deals with the religious enigma of Beruria, the only female scholar mentioned in Talmudic literature. Although a well-known figure to educated readers, her scholarship has not been thoroughly investigated. Because Beruria was better known for her femininity than her literacy many doubted her scholarship Some maintain that she never existed except in the imagination and libido of the Rabbis The book fully exposes her character and her teachings with an atypical theological perspective of individual status Comparing Beruria s philosophical model in the Talmudic literature to her portrayal in the post Talmudic the book indicates a crisis in Jewish culture which circles around the differentiation of the sociological versus theological perspective of individual status in general particularly of women News from the School of the Jewish
