Islamic Civilization S. M. Ghazanfar,2006-03-30 Review Islamic Civilization History Contributions and Influence A Compendium of Literature is a window to literature pertaining to Islamic history and Islam's contributions to knowledge and its influence in medieval Europe. The book is unique in that it presents more than mere annotations; it is a collection of literature briefs detailed and focused descriptions of each of the more than six hundred books and articles covered. In the post 9/11 environment, there has been a surge of interest regarding all things Islamic. While much of the new literature is refreshingly positive, some works demonstrate a revival of centuries-old misconceptions about the Islamic world. Islamic Civilization examines that dichotomy through literature that the author has accumulated over the past twenty years in connection with other research endeavors concerning early Islamic social thought; thus, most references have a social science/humanities orientation. Students, research scholars, and professionals will find this bibliography full of useful resources and a stimulus for further reading.

"creed of Science" in Victorian England Roy M. MacLeod, 2000 The nineteenth century which saw the triumph of the idea of progress and improvement saw also the triumph of science as a political and cultural force. In England as science and its methods claimed privilege and space its language acquired the vocabulary of religion. The new creed of science embraced what John Tyndall called the scientific movement; it was in the language of T. H. Huxley a militant creed. The march of invention, the discoveries of chemistry and the wonders of steam and electricity culminated in a crusade against ignorance and unbelief. It was a creed that looked to its own apostolic succession from Copernicus, Galileo and the martyrs of the scientific revolution. Yet it was a creed whose doctrines were divisive and whose convictions resisted. Alongside arguments for materialism, utility, positivism and evolutionary naturalism persisted reservations about the nature of man, the role of ethics and the limits of scientific method. These essays discuss leading strategists in the scientific movement of late Victorian England. At the same time, they show how science established served not only the scientific community but also the interests of imperial and colonial powers.
