The Muria And Their Ghotul:

The Muria and Their Ghotul Verrier Elwin, 1970      Irregular Connections Andrew P. Lyons, Harriet Lyons, 2004-12-01

Irregular Connections traces the anthropological study of sex from the eighteenth century to the present focusing primarily on social and cultural anthropology and the work done by researchers in North America and Great Britain. Andrew P. and Harriet D. Lyons argue that the sexuality of those whom anthropologists studied has been conscripted into Western discourses about sex including debates about prostitution, homosexuality, divorce, premarital relations, and hierarchies of gender, class, and race. Because sex is the most private of activities and often carries a high emotional charge, it is peculiarly difficult to investigate. At times such as the late 1920s and the last decade of the twentieth century, sexuality has been a central concern of anthropologists and focal in their theoretical formulations. At other times, the study of sexuality has been marginalized. The anthropology of sex has sometimes been one of the main faces that anthropology presented to the public, often causing resentment within the discipline. Andrew P. Lyons is an associate professor of anthropology at Wilfrid Laurier University. Harriet D. Lyons is an associate professor of anthropology at the University of Waterloo.      Tribes of India Rann Singh Mann, 1996. This comprehensive account reflects the thinking, insight, and experience of very senior Indian anthropologists. The concerns expressed involve macro mapping of India's tribal scenario in its diverse perspective. Challenges and alternative from another front which has been debated upon in various phases of descriptions. Where do the Indian tribes stand at the turn of the century? is so well documented in this volume that anyone interested in them would have no alternative but to join the stream of these anthropological thinkers and empiricists who realize that many odds continue to mark the philosophy, policy, ground level reality, etc.      The Muria and Their Ghotul Harry Verrier Holman ELWIN, 1947

The Eastern Anthropologist, 2008      Life Style, Indian Tribes Shiva Tosh Das, 1989      The Oxford India Elwin Verrier Elwin, 2009. From presenting in Elwin's own words the account of his going to work among the tribal peoples of central India to affording glimpses of his seminal work on the unique institution of the ghotul among the Murias of Bastar or relating Elwin's attempts at understanding the high incidence of murder and suicide among the Bison horn Marias of Bastar. The Oxford India Elwin looks beyond the general and the oft repeated to include within its covers the many fascinating discoveries that Verrier Elwin made while working among the different tribal communities in India. While the Introduction to Folk Songs of the Maikal Hills discusses the principles of translating folk poetry, the importance of the elements of nature, magic, the supernatural, and song and dance in tribal life is highlighted through selections from The Myths of Middle India. Whether providing glimpses of Elwin's travels in the remote Northeast or discussing the effects of civilization on tribal art or describing the Naga people and their customs or presenting the myths of the NEFA region, the effort is to bring the man, his thoughts and actions, the contributions he made towards upholding and preserving the cultural diversity of the Subcontinent closer to readers through a single volume which will be both accessible and affordable. The book will be a valuable addition to the Oxford India Collection which includes the writings of Ghalib Premchand Ramanujan Nehru and Gandhi Armed with a useful and perceptive Introduction by G N Devy this edition will appeal to all those who know and adore Elwin as also students and researchers of anthropology cultural studies and Indian history
