Death and Disease in the Medieval and Early Modern World Lori Jones, Nükhet Varlık, 2022

This collection highlights and nuances some of the recent critical advances in scholarship on death and disease across and beyond the pre-modern Mediterranean world. Christian, Islamic, and Jewish healing traditions across and beyond the pre-modern Mediterranean world shared inherited medical paradigms containing similar healthy living precepts and attitudes toward body, illness, and mortality. Yet as the chapters collected here demonstrate, customs of diagnosing, explaining, and coping with disease and death often diverged with respect to knowledge and practice. Offering a variety of disciplinary approaches to a broad selection of material emerging from England to the Persian Gulf, the volume reaches across conventional disciplinary and historiographical boundaries. Plague diagnoses in pre-Black Death Arabic medical texts, rare illustrated phlebotomy instructions for plague patients, and a Jewish plague tract utilising the Torah as medicine reflect critical re-examinations of primary sources long thought to have nothing new to offer. Novel re-interpretations of Giovanni Villani's New Chronicle, canonisation inquests, and saints' lives offer fresh considerations of medieval constructions of epidemics, disabilities, and the interplay between secular and spiritual healing. Cross-disciplinary perspectives recast late medieval post-mortem diagnoses in Milan as a juridical rather than strictly medical practice, highlight the aural performativity of the Franciscan deathbed liturgy, explore the long evolution of lapidary treatments for paediatric and obstetric diseases, and thrust us into the Ottoman polychromatic sensory world of disease and death. Finally, considerations of the contributions of modern science alongside historical primary sources generate important new ways to understand death and disease in the past. Overall, the contributions juxtapose and interlace similarities and differences in their local and historical contexts while highlighting and nuancing some of the recent critical advances in scholarship on death and disease. Two historiographical subfields long approached separately: examinations of primary sources long thought to have nothing new to offer; Novel re-interpretations of Giovanni Villani's New Chronicle; canonisation inquests and saints' lives offer fresh considerations of medieval constructions of epidemics, disabilities, and the interplay between secular and spiritual healing. The Place of God in Piers Plowman and Medieval Art Mary Clemente Davlin,2001

Very few poets except the authors of the Hebrew Scriptures and the New Testament have tried to write in any extended way about God Even Dante confines his vision of Christ and the Trinity to a few passages at the end of Paradiso and most religious lyric poets concentrate more on their own attitudes and reactions to God their prayer longing repentance suffering or joy than on the nature of God Among English poems three narratives Piers Plowman Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained are exceptional in their extensive explicit poetry about god and their direct concern with the mysteries of Biblical faith This work looks at Piers Plowman confronting not only the alterity of culture resulting from a lapse of almost 700 years but also the more profound alterity of the subject matter
