Gilsenan,2013-06-03 Islam is more than a set of laws rites and beliefs presented as a religious and social totality As a word it covers a multitude of everyday forms and practices that are interwoven in complex sometimes almost invisible ways in daily existence Drawing exclusively on his own fieldwork in Egypt South Arabia and the Lebanon the author explores the nature of Islam and its impact on the daily lives of its followers he shows that all the Western stereotypes of Islam and its practitioners need to be treated with considerable scepticism He demonstrates also that the understanding of Islam is dependent on recognizing a variety of class tensions and oppositions within an Islamic society These have become all the more crucial in recent years with the growth of a capitalist economy in which the forms and functions of the state have expanded considerably This study focuses on the social and cultural divisions between very different groups and classes ranging from the working masses of Cairo to the new bourgeoisie of Algeria and Morocco The accent of the book is on the forms and transformations of Islam within these different societies The impact of colonialism is discussed in this context and reformist and radical Islamic movements are analyzed in relation to shifting structures in class and society at large First published in 1982 Lichfield diocesan magazine [afterw.] Three spires Lichfield diocese,1892 Memorial of the First Centenary of Georgetown College, D.C., Comprising a History of Georgetown University John Gilmary Shea,1891 Government Gazette ,1895 University of Ottawa Review ,1908 Annals of Saint Joseph ,1896
