Studies In Power And Class In Africa:

Studies in Power and Class in Africa Irving Leonard Markovitz, 1987 These thirteen original essays bring the concept of social class to the analysis of contemporary African politics Each study considers different aspects of a single theme the authoritative allocation of values or who gets what when where and why and who gets left out The essays address problems of major concern in the daily lives of ordinary people pointing out just how precarious life was for most Africans during and after the Colonial period They show how class conflict intensified with war and depression how farmers fled to the city to maintain their independence and how migrant workers struggled to protect their declining standard of living The authors who represent a cross section of political perspectives and disciplinary backgrounds also shed light on the importance of the state religion ideology gender ethnicity language and international relations in determining policy and in understanding society in general Challenging the conventional academic and popular views of Africa these powerful studies hold implications which if heeded could affect future scholarship as well as policy The Rise of Africa's Middle Class Henning Melber, 2016-12-15 Across Africa a burgeoning middle class has become the poster child for the Africa rising narrative Ambitious aspirational and increasingly affluent this group is said to embody the values and hopes of the new Africa with international bodies ranging from the United Nations Development Programme to the World Bank regarding them as important agents of both economic development and democratic change This narrative however obscures the complex and often ambiguous role that this group actually plays in African societies Bringing together economists political scientists anthropologists and development experts and spanning a variety of case studies from across the continent this collection provides a much needed corrective to the received wisdom within development circles and provides a fresh perspective on social transformations in contemporary Africa Encyclopedia of African History 3-Volume Set KEVIN SHILLINGTON., 2005 African Studies Review , 1997 The State in Africa Jean-Francois Bayart, 2009-07-20 The State in Africa is one of the important and compelling texts of comparative politics and historical sociology of the last 20 years Bayart rejects the assumption of African otherness based on stereotyped images inviting the reader to see that African politics is like politics anywhere else in the world not an exotic aberration Human Rights in the International Public Sphere William Over, 1999-08-17 Bridges the gap between human rights as discourse in the areas of communications cultural regional and international studies Power and Class in Africa Irving Leonard Markovitz, 1977 The Transnational Politics of Higher Education Meng-Hsuan Chou, Isaac Kamola, Tamson Pietsch, 2016-02-26 This edited volume introduces readers to the relationship between higher education and transnational politics It shows how higher education is a significant arena for regional and international transformation as well as domestic political struggle replete with unequal power relations This volume shows The causes and impacts of recent transformations in higher education within a transnational context Emerging similarities in objectives institutional set ups and approaches taking place within higher education institutions across different world regions The asymmetrical relations between various kinds of institutional commercial and state actors across borders The extent to which historical and colonial legacies are important in the transformation of higher education The potential effects these developments have on the current structure of international political order Drawing on case studies from across the Middle East Asia Africa Latin America and Europe the contributors develop diverse perspectives explaining the impact of transnational politics on higher education and higher education on transitional politics across time and locality This book is among the first multi disciplinary effort to wrestle with the question of how we can understand the political role of higher education and the political force universities exert in the realm of international relations Readings in Constitutional Law and Politics in Africa Kivutha Kibwana,1998 Encyclopedia of Historians and Historical Writing Kelly Boyd,2019-10-09 The Encyclopedia of Historians and Historical Writing contains over 800 entries ranging from Lord Acton and Anna Comnena to Howard Zinn and from Herodotus to Simon Schama Over 300 contributors from around the world have composed critical assessments of historians from the beginning of historical writing to the present day including individuals from related disciplines like Jürgen Habermas and Clifford Geertz whose theoretical contributions have informed historical debate Additionally the Encyclopedia includes some 200 essays treating the development of national regional and topical historiographies from the Ancient Near East to the history of sexuality In addition to the Western tradition it includes substantial assessments of African Asian and Latin American historians and debates on gender and subaltern studies

Canadian Journal of African Studies ,1984 The State in Africa Jean-François Bayart,1993 Examines the role and structure of the state in Africa Amongst the areas considered are the genesis of the state the decision to pursue conservative modernization or social revolution the formation of an historic postcolonial bloc and entrepreneurs factions and political networks Index Islamicus ,1988 A bibliography of books and index of articles in periodicals on Islam and the Muslim world Also includes reviews Research in Political Economy Paul Zarembka,1986 Rethinking Urban Transitions Andrés Luque-Ayala,Simon Marvin,Harriet Bulkeley,2018-03-15 Rethinking Urban Transitions provides critical insight for societal and policy debates about the potential and limits of low carbon urbanism It draws on over a decade of international research undertaken by scholars across multiple disciplines concerned with analysing and shaping urban sustainability transitions It seeks to open up the possibility of a new generation of urban low carbon transition research which foregrounds the importance of political geographical and developmental context in shaping the possibilities for a low carbon urban future The book s contributions propose an interpretation of urban low carbon transitions as primarily social political and developmental processes Rather than being primarily technical efforts aimed at measuring and mitigating greenhouse gases the low carbon transition requires a shift in the mode and politics of urban development The book argues that moving towards this model requires rethinking what it means to design practise and mobilize low carbon in the city while also acknowledging the presence of multiple and contested developmental pathways Key to this shift is thinking about transitions not solely as technical infrastructural or systemic shifts but also as a way of thinking about collective futures societal development and governing modes a recognition of the political and contested nature of low carbon urbanism The various contributions provide novel conceptual frameworks as well as empirically rich cases through which we can begin to interrogate the relevance of socio economic political and developmental dimensions in the making or unmaking of low carbon in the city The book draws on a diverse range of examples including world cities and ordinary cities from North America South America Europe Australia Africa India and China to provide evidence that expectations aspirations and plans to undertake purposive socio technical transitions are both emerging and encountering resistance in different urban contexts Rethinking Urban Transitions is an essential text for courses concerned with cities climate change and environmental issues in sociology politics urban studies planning environmental studies geography and the built environment
