Zuidema, 2013-08-08 A great deal of scholarship has too often juxtaposed scholasticism and piety resulting in misunderstandings of the relationship between Protestant churches of the early modern era and the theology taught in their schools But more recent scholarship especially conducted by Richard A Muller over the last number of decades has remapped the lines of continuity and discontinuity in the relation of church and school This research has produced a more methodologically nuanced and historically accurate representation of church and school in early modern Protestantism

Written by leading scholars of early modern Protestant theology and history and based on research using the most relevant original sources this collection seeks to broaden our understanding of how and why clergy were educated to serve the church

Augsburg and the Meckhart Confession Adam Glen Hough, 2019-03-06 Taking the religiously diverse city of Augsburg as its focus this book explores the underappreciated role of local clergy in mediating and interpreting the Peace of Augsburg in the decades following its 1555 enactment focusing on the efforts of the preacher Johann Meckhart and his heirs in blunting the cultural impact of confessional religion It argues that the real drama of confessionalization was not simply that which played out between princes and theologians or even for that matter between religions rather it lay in the daily struggle of clerics in the proverbial trenches of their ministry who were increasingly pressured to choose for themselves and for their congregations between doctrinal purity and civil peace
