The Critical Turn in Tourism Studies Irena Ateljevic, Annette Pritchard, Nigel Morgan, 2007-03-15 New approaches to tourism study demonstrate a notable critical turn a shift in thought that emphasises interpretative and critical modes of tourism inquiry The chapters in this volume reflect this emerging critical school of tourism studies and represent a coordinated effort of tourism scholars whose work engages innovative research methodologies. Since such work has been dispersed across a variety of tourism related and other research fields, this book responds to a pressing need to consolidate recent advances in a single text. Adopting a broad definition of criticality, the contributors seek to find fresh ways of theorising tourism by locating the phenomenon in its wider political, economic, cultural and social contexts. The collection addresses the power relations underpinning the production of academic knowledge, presents a range of qualitative data collection methods which confront the field's dominant post-positivist approaches, foregrounds the emotional dynamics of research relations and explores the personal, the political and the situated nature of research journeys. The book has been divided into two parts, with the essays in the first part establishing a context-specific framework for engaging philosophical and theoretical debates in contemporary tourism enquiry. The second set of essays then present, discuss and critique specific methodologies, research techniques, methods of interpretation and writing strategies, all of which are in some sense illustrative of critical tourism research. Contributors range from postgraduate students to established academics and are drawn from both the geopolitical margins and the powerbases of the tourism academy. Their various relationships with the English speaking academy thus range from relative outsider to well-positioned insider and as a result, their essays are reflective of a range of locations within the complexly spun web of academic power relations and social divisions.
