Creating a successful sculpture requires an imaginative concept and a sound design that utilize the potential and avoid the limitations of the material and the process used in making it. Prior to a few decades ago most sculptors were restricted to carving stone and wood or casting plaster, ceramics and bronze for their creations. Contemporary sculptors however are no longer bound by the limitations of these traditional materials and processes and can now create works in sizes, forms and textures that could not have been achieved previously. Many modern sculptures are now made from materials ranging from steel and aluminum to plastics and composites using processes ranging from welding and adhesive bonding to molding and 3D printing. To fully utilize the full potential of such new materials the sculptor needs to understand their points of strength, their limitations and the most effective way of shaping them to achieve a given design. Although this book is written by a materials engineer the subject matter is presented from the point of view of the sculptor with emphasis on the strengths and weaknesses of different materials, their resistance to weather conditions, natural color and possible surface textures, possible methods of shaping and joining tools and equipment needed and safety measures to take. Whenever possible case studies are used to illustrate the sequence of processes and the cost elements involved in shaping a given material to create an actual work of sculpture      The Silent Language of Sculpture Murray and Isabella Rayburn Foundation, 1988      Chambers's Encyclopaedia, 1892      Chambers's Encyclopædia, 1871      Chambers' Encyclopædia, 1893      Mastering Primary Art and Design Peter Gregory, Claire March, Suzy Tutchell, 2020-02-20

Every material has an active presence and every material is susceptible to change. The task of the sculptor is to understand the natural properties of a chosen material to know in the process of creation how best to work with or against its characteristics. In this generously illustrated studio manual, sculptor Oliver Andrews takes a new approach to sculpture, focusing on how the innate assertiveness of materials affects the complex act of making a sculpture      Southern Architect, 1897      The Furniture Gazette, 1888      The Athenaeum, 1872
