Q. What are the consequences of being "overly aggressive" and "overzealous" during the litigation process? What are the consequences of being "overzealous" during the litigation process?	Consequences of being "overly aggressive" and "overzealous" during the litigation process can be significant. For example, if a plaintiff's attorney is overly aggressive and "overzealous" during the litigation process, they may be perceived as being "aggressive" and "overzealous" by the court and the other party. This can lead to negative consequences, such as being denied a trial date or being ordered to pay legal expenses to the other party. It is important for attorneys to be professional and respectful during the litigation process to avoid these types of consequences.
