Patrick Angus Ulrike Groos, 2017-12-10 Patrick Angus b North Hollywood 1953 d New York 1992 was the paintbrush wielding chronicler of gay life in 1980s Manhattan At a time when abstract and minimalist art reigned supreme he chose to focus on figurative representational art He painted and drew portraits cityscapes landscapes and time and again scenes from the homosexual underground milieu with its strip shows bars and bathhouses Yet rather than trying to make a political statement Angus sought to articulate basic human needs yearnings and anxieties His pictures are metaphors of the quest for his own identity and journey of sexual self discovery With their deft use of light and expressive palette his compositions capture the unbridled hedonism of his subjects as well as the distinctive atmosphere of the settings in which they appear His artistic role model was the California based British painter David Hockney who took notice of Angus s work in 1992 and purchased six of his paintings shortly before the artist s death Long admired by insiders the oeuvre of Patrick Angus who died of HIV related disease at the age of 38 has remained largely unknown in the larger art scene The book with essays by Tobias Bednarz Sebastian Preuss Sarah Donata Schneider Douglas Blair Turnbaugh and Anne Vieth as well as a preface by Ulrike Groos presents an in depth survey of the artist s complete output

Race, Sex, and Gender Edward Lucie-Smith, 1994 One of the most significant developments in the art world of the 1980s and 1990s has been the rise to prominence of minority cultures In this provocative volume an art historian looks at how the different minority groups came to prominence and how they revolutionized the kinds of art currently featured in museums and galleries 115 illustrations including 100 in full color
