Focus Strategies in African Languages Enoch Oladé Aboh, Katharina Hartmann, Malte

Zimmermann, 2008-08-27 Over the last two decades focus has become a prominent topic in major fields in linguistic research syntax semantics phonology Focus Strategies in African Languages contributes to the ongoing discussion of focus by investigating focus related phenomena in a range of African languages most of which have been under represented in the theoretical literature on focus The articles in the volume look at focus strategies in Niger Congo and Afro Asiatic languages from several theoretical and methodological perspectives ranging from detailed generative analysis to careful typological generalization across languages Their common aim is to deepen our understanding of whether and how the information structural category of focus is represented and marked in natural language Topics investigated are among others the relation of focus and prosody the effects of information structure on word order ex situ versus in situ strategies of focus marking the inventory of focus marking devices focus and related constructions focus sensitive particles The present inquiry into the focus systems of African languages has repercussions on existing theories of focus It reveals new focus strategies as well as fine tuned focus distinctions that are not discussed in the theoretical literature which is almost exclusively based on well documented intonation languages

Order and Information Structure in Makhuwa-Enahara Jenneke Van der Wal, 2009 This thesis investigates the grammar of Makhuwa Enahara a Bantu language spoken in the north of Mozambique The information structure is an influential factor in this language determining the word order and the use of special conjugations known as conjoint and disjoint verb forms The thesis consists of two parts The first part is a grammatical description of the language covering the basic properties in the phonology prosody and morphology of the nominal and verbal domain as well as an overview of the conjugational system The chapter also examines some syntactic issues such as relativisation and non verbal predication The second part is concerned with the question how syntax and information structure interact in Makhuwa Enahara The elements in a sentence are positioned before or after the verb on the basis of their information structure Elements in the preverbal domain are interpreted as more accessible functioning as topics The disjoint verb and elements in the postverbal domain form the comment The element immediately following the conjoint verb form is interpreted not just as new information but as exclusive meaning that the proposition holds for that referent and not for some other referents These data can be accounted for if insights from syntax and information structure are combined Two such approaches are discussed a cartographic model and an interface model Two interface rules are proposed to account for the interpretation of word order and the conjoint and disjoint verb forms in Makhuwa Enahara Setswana Special Skills Handbook ,1979 Bua Setswana Bibiana Nalwiindi Seaborn,1983 International African Bibliography ,2001 Resources in Education ,1994 Calendar University of Botswana,2002 The Multilingual Apple Ofelia García,Joshua A.
