

Brothers Karamazov

Relationship Tree

* As you can see, Russians do not have a middle name; instead it is replaced with a patronymic name, which is derived from their father's first name. Patronymic names are used after first names when addressing a person of little acquaintance or somebody older than you to show respect. Hint: if confused about any familial relationships, you can always look at patronymic name to see who is the father, and who is the son.

Romantic Connections

*You might notice that Agrapheva Alexandrovna Svetlova is constantly referred to by people as Grushenka, which is an affectionate form of Agrapheva (very similar to how in Western tradition Margaret is often called Peggy). Literally it means "pear" in Russian (grusha = pear, grushenka = affectionate form of "pear"), as in fruit. Many male characters refer to her by such name, which indicates her close acquaintance with them, which in turn might hint at her promiscuous nature.

Structure Of The Brothers Karamozov:

The Structure of The Brothers Karamazov Robert L. Belknap, 1989 Long unavailable The Structure of The Brothers Karamazov is a classic in American Slavic studies Robert L Belknap's study clarifies the complex architectonics of Dostoevsky's most carefully constructed and painstakingly written book by employing structuralist critical methods This first paperback edition includes a new preface by the author reflecting on the theory of the book and on recent developments in Dostoevsky criticism and relevant critical theory

A Karamazov Companion Victor Terras, 1981 The text of The Brothers Karamazov is removed from English speaking readers today not only by time but also by linguistic and cultural boundaries Victor Terras's companion work provides readers with a richer understanding of the Dostoevsky novel as the expression of a philosophy and a work of art In his introduction Terras outlines the genesis main ideas and structural peculiarities of the novel as well as Dostoevsky's political philosophical and aesthetic stance The detailed commentary takes the reader through the novel clarifying aspects of Russian life the novel's sociopolitical background and a number of polemic issues Terras identifies and explains hundreds of literary and biblical quotations and allusions He discusses symbols recurrent images and structural stylistic patterns including those lost in English translation

The Novel in the Age of Disintegration Kate Holland, 2013-10-31 Scholars have long been fascinated by the creative struggles with genre manifested throughout Dostoevsky's career In The Novel in the Age of Disintegration Kate Holland brings historical context to bear showing that Dostoevsky wanted to use the form of the novel as a means of depicting disintegration brought on by various crises in Russian society in the 1860s This required him to reinvent the genre At the same time he sought to infuse his novels with the capacity to inspire belief in social and spiritual reintegration so he returned to some older conventions of a society that was already becoming outmoded In thoughtful readings of Demons The Adolescent A Writer's Diary and The Brothers Karamazov Holland delineates Dostoevsky's struggle to adapt a genre to the reality of the present with all its upheavals while maintaining a utopian vision of Russia's future mission

English Language Criticism on the Foreign Novel: 1965-1975, 1989 Critical interest in foreign novels especially the Latin American and African novel has burgeoned in the past two decades The purpose of this reference bibliography is to provide easier access to the criticism produced from 1965 to 1975 on novels published in Africa Latin America Europe Asia Canada Australia and the middle East A second volume will cover criticism between 1976 and 1985 Throughout this work the term foreign novel includes novels and other longer works of fiction produced in all countries other than the United States and the United Kingdom Coverage ranges in time of writing from Apuleius Metamorphosis first century A D and Murasaki's Tale of Genji 11th century to Garcia Marquez's 100 Years of Solitude 1967 and Margaret Atwood

s Surfacing 1972 The 277 journals chosen primarily because of their wide circulation and 584 books indexed for relevant material contribute to the 13 000 bibliographic citations on 1 500 authors This is a reference tool which is surely essential for any library or world literature scholar Building the Human City Dr. John F. Kane, 2016-03-30 Building the Human City is a first overview of the award winning yet quite diverse works of Jesuit philosopher William F Lynch Writing from the 1950s to the mid 1980s Lynch was among the first to warn against the fierce polarizations prevalent in our culture wars and political life He called for a transformation of artistic and intellectual sensibilities and imaginations through the healing discernments and critical ironies of an Ignatian and Socratic spirituality Yet the breadth of his concerns from cinema and literature to mental health and hope to secularization and faith as well as the depth of his thought philosophical as much as theological led to little initial awareness of the overall vision uniting his writings This book while exploring that vision also argues that the spirituality Lynch proposes is more needed today than when he first wrote New Perspectives on Nineteenth-century Russian Prose George J. Gutsche, Lauren G. Leighton, 1982 The Structural Analysis of Narrative Texts Andrej Kodjak, Michael J. Connolly, Krystyna Pomorska, 1980 Structural Principles of The Brothers Karamazov David Keevin Danow, 1993 Joyce, Bakhtin, and the Literary Tradition M. Keith Booker, 2025-12-10 Literary studies of James Joyce perhaps more so than those of any other author have been enriched by important developments in literary theory in the last twenty five years Noting a curious gap in this scholarship M Keith Booker brings the work of Mikhail Bakhtin unquestionably one of the most important literary theorists of this century to bear on Joyce s relationship to six of his literary predecessors In clear and readable prose Booker explores Joyce s dialogues not only with Homer Dante and Shakespeare his three most obvious predecessors but with Rabelais Goethe and Dostoevsky three literary figures important in Bakhtin s theoretical work These six writers provide the opportunity to examine Joyce s work with regard to several of Bakhtin s most important concepts If Homer represents the authority of epic Rabelais represents for Bakhtin the subversive multivocal energies of carnivalesque genres As opposed to his description of Dante s attempts to escape from historicity Bakhtin figures Goethe as the epitome of engagement with the temporality of everyday history And Bakhtin s generic denial of polyphony in the works of Shakespeare contrasts with Bakhtin s identification of Dostoevsky as the most polyphonic writer in all the world of literature Together Booker s comparative readings suggest a Joyce whose works are politically committed historically engaged and socially relevant In short they suggest a Joyce whose work differs radically from conventional notions of modernist literature as culturally elitist historically detached and more interested in individual psychology than in social reality The Revolutions of Stage Design in the 20th Century Denis Bablet, 1977 This book is aiming to grasp the evolution of stage design in an entirely international spirit from the end of illusionary realism till present day It reveals the work of designers and painters who are trying to create a world of stage design to define space fill it with forms sings color and lighting which will speak to each and every one of us East European Languages and Literatures , 1988 Modern
