Structured Meanings The Semantics Of Propositional Attitudes:

   Structured Meanings M. J. Cresswell,1985 M J Cresswell is a logician and philosopher of language who has been a major continuing influence on the growth and development of formal semantics over the past 15 years or more This book is the outgrowth of years of work on propositional attitudes the hardest problem in semantics In it he traces the problem to the foundations of semantics and solves it by distinguishing between the result of the composition of the simple parts of complex expressions and structure consisting of the uncomposed parts Cresswell explains the basis of the great intuitive appeal of structured meanings and why previous attempts from Carnap s notion of intensional isomorphism on to use them to solve the propositional attitudes problem have been unsuccessful His own formalization is integrated into a model theoretic framework which is capable of incorporating and extending all the insights obtained from Montague s semantics M J Cresswell is Professor of Philosophy Victoria University of Wellington New Zealand He is the author of Logics and Languages in which he developed an alternative version of Montague Grammar as well as many articles on possible worlds semantics and coauthor with G E Hughes of An Introduction to Modal Logicand A Companion to Modal Logic the standard works in the field A Bradford Book   On the Semantics of Propositional Attitude Reports Mats Dahllöf,1995   On Information Structure, Meaning and Form Kerstin Schwabe,Susanne Winkler,2007 This collection of articles offers a new and compelling perspective on the interface connecting syntax phonology semantics and pragmatics At the core of this volume is the hypothesis that information structure represents the common interface of these grammatical components Information structure is investigated here from different theoretical viewpoints yielding typologically relevant information and structural generalizations In the volume s introductory chapter the editors identify two central approaches to information structure the formal and the interpretive view The remainder of the book is organized accordingly The first part examines information structure and grammar concentrating on generalizations across languages The second part investigates information structure and pragmatics concentrating on clause structure and context Through concrete analyses of topic focus and related phenomena across different languages the contributors add new and convincing evidence to the research on information structure   Properties, Types and Meaning G. Chierchia,Barbara B.H. Partee,R. Turner,2012-12-06 This collection of papers stems originally from a conference on Property Theory Type Theory and Semantics held in Amherst on March 13 16 1986 The conference brought together logicians philosophers com puter scientists and linguists who had been working on these issues of ten in isolation from one another Our intent was to boost debate and exchange of ideas on these fundamental issues at a time of rapid change in semantics and cognitive science The papers published in this work have evolved substantially since their original presentation at the conference Given their scope we thought it convenient to divide the work into two volumes The first deals primarily with logical and philosophical foundations the second with more empirical semantic issues While there is a common set of issues tying the two volumes together they are both self contained and can be read independently of one another Two of the papers in the present collection van Benthem in volume 1 and Chierchia in volume II were not actually read at the conference They are nevertheless included here for their direct relevance to the topics of the volumes Regrettably some of the papers that were presented Feferman Klein and Plotkin could not be included in the present work due to timing problems We nevertheless thank the authors for their contribu tion in terms of ideas and participation in the debate Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,1999 LLBA contains abstracts of the world s literature in linguistics and language related research book abstracts book review listings and enhanced bibliographic citations of relevant dissertations Related disciplines such as anthropology education ethnology information science medicine and communications are covered Also includes some reference to papers in published conference proceedings Tijdschrift voor philosophie ,1987 Linguistica Silesiana ,2002 Proceedings from Semantics and Linguistic Theory ,2003 A Semantic Study of Propositional Attitudes Rieko Ashida,2000 The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1995 Proceedings of the First Semantics and Linguistic Theory Conference Held at Cornell University, April 19-21 1991 Steven K.
