Structure Agency And The Internal Conversation:

Structure, Agency and the Internal Conversation Margaret Scotford Archer, 2003-08-28 Explores the relationship between structure and agency through human reflexivity and the internal conversation Advanced Systems-Level Problem Solving, Volume 2 Otto Laske, 2023-10-14 This three volume set introduces the practice of advanced dialectical systems level problem solving in both the social and natural sciences In social science it opens new vistas regarding organizational strategy and work design In the natural sciences it provides heretofore missing conceptions of physical systems in peril due to the climate crisis In addition the author draws conclusions that are important for advancing generative AI The monograph presents novel conceptual tools that directly impact the internal structure of a systems analyst's mental processing in real time While the first volume lays the theoretical groundwork for dialectical systems analysis the second focusing on the nature of work lays bare the structure of complex thinking in terms of the thought forms it requires In order to facilitate better understanding of the principles taught in the first two volumes the third volume provides a Manual of Dialectical Thought Forms which is the only one in existence today Going to University Case, Jennifer, Marshall, Delia, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities Going to University. The Influence of Higher Education on the Lives of Young South Africans Jennifer Case, Delia Marshall, 2018-02-09 Around the world more young people than ever before are attending university Student numbers in South Africa have doubled since democracy and for many families higher education is a route to a better future for their children But alongside the overwhelming demand for higher education questions about its purposes have intensified Deliberations about the curriculum culture and costing of public higher education abound from student activists academics parents civil society and policy makers We know from macro research that South African graduates generally have good employment prospects But little is known at a detailed level about how young people actually make use of their university experiences to craft their life courses And even less is known about what happens to those who drop out This accessible book brings together the rich life stories of 73 young people six years after they began their university studies It traces how going to university influences not only their employment options but also nurtures the agency needed to chart their own way and to engage critically with the world around them The book offers deep insights into the ways in which public higher education is both a private and public good and it provides significant conclusions pertinent to anyone who works in and cares about universities

A New Model of Religious Conversion Ines W. Jindra, 2014-02-06 Based on the analysis of 52 conversion narratives to various religious groups A New Model of Religious Conversion utilizes case studies for comparison of converts backgrounds network influence and conversion narratives The author convincingly illustrates a fit between the converts background and the religion they convert to such as between disorganized family backgrounds and highly structured religions Conversely those from highly structured backgrounds often convert to more open groups The book also makes it clear that not all conversions are influenced by networks or align themselves with a social constructivist view of a conversion as an account Taking converts trajectories seriously the author makes a strong case for the application of biographical sociology to the study of conversion and American sociology overall

Distant Markets, Distant Harms Daniel Finn, 2014-03-19 Does a consumer who bought a shirt made in another nation bear any moral responsibility when the women who sewed that shirt die in a factory fire or in the collapse of the building Many have asserted without explanation that because markets cause harms to distant others consumers bear moral responsibility for those harms But traditional moral analysis of individual decisions is unable to sustain this argument Distant Harms Distant Markets presents a careful analysis of moral complicity in markets employing resources from sociology Christian history feminism legal theory and Catholic moral theology today Because of its individualistic methods mainstream economics as a discipline is not equipped to understand the causality entailed in the long chains of social relationships that make up the market Critical realist sociology however has addressed the character and functioning of social structures an analysis that can helpfully be applied to the market The True Wealth of Nations research project of the Institute for Advanced Catholic Studies brought together an international group of sociologists economists moral theologians and others to describe these causal relationships and articulate how Catholic social thought can use these insights to more fully address issues of economic ethics in the twenty first century The result was this interdisciplinary volume of essays which explores the causal and moral responsibilities that consumers bear for the harms that markets cause to distant others

Gender Identities in a Globalized World Ana Marta Gonzalez, Victor J. Seidler, 2008-12-16 This cross disciplinary collection of essays focuses on gender from multiple perspectives touching on a variety of aspects that range from specific tendencies such as fashion to general trends connected to globalization human dignity and world migration The main themes include human rights political economy cultural diversity democracy immigration dignity care and shifts in hegemonic male models of societies The volume differs from others published on gender as it focuses on the impact of globalization on gender identities and examines the potential for global masculinities and feminisms as well as the implications that these might have on the local level The multidisciplinary approach allows for analysis of the topic from several different points of view and methodologies The pioneering studies in this unique volume will be of great interest to sociologists feminists philosophers and scholars and students of gender identity and globalization trends
