Suicidal Darkness:

Why Suicide Is Amoral Robyn Gaier, 2024-06-25 Moral evaluations of actions are only appropriate for actions within the moral domain. Actions outside of the moral domain are amoral actions. In Why Suicide Is Amoral: A Philosophical Account, Robyn Gaier emphasizes the role of agency in determining whether an action is within the moral domain. If an agent lacks either deliberative agency or moral agency, then their action is amoral. An agent lacks deliberative agency if they cannot evaluate and act upon reasons, and moral agency if they cannot act upon moral reasons. Actions in which such agencies are compromised are also amoral actions. In treating actions of suicide while granting their diversity, this book traces them to the loss or threat of loss of basic psychological needs. Gaier argues that when basic psychological needs are lost or under threat, an agent's deliberative agency, moral agency, or both are either lacking or compromised. Hence, actions of suicide are amoral, and it is a conceptual mistake to attempt the moral evaluation of actions of suicide. Furthermore, when we regard actions of suicide as within the moral domain, we perpetuate a social stigma against suicide. Dust in the Blood Jessica Coblentz, 2022-01-15 Dust in the Blood considers the harrowing realities of life with depression from a Christian theological perspective. In conversation with popular Christian theologies of depression that justify why this suffering exists and prescribe how people ought to relate to it, Coblentz offers another Christian approach to this condition. She reflects on depression as a wilderness experience, weaving first-person narratives of depression, contemporary theologies of suffering, and ancient biblical tales of the wilderness, especially the story of Hagar. Coblentz argues for and contributes to an expansion of Christian ideas about what depression is, how God relates to it, and how Christians should understand and respond to depression in turn. DEPRESSION Robert Canada, 2018-01-11

The National Institute of Mental Health estimates sixteen million adults in the United States suffer from some form of depression. The World Health Organization estimates 350 million people in the world suffer from depression. Over thirty thousand suicides take place in America each year; above sixty percent suffered from depression. The suicide epidemic has become the fourth leading cause of death among adults ages eighteen to sixty-five. This sermon topic seems to be overlooked by our pulpits today. There are millions of Christians within the 350 million suffering from depression. These brothers and sisters in Christ are suffering from something they cannot control. They awake each day to another day of dread, crying out to God for relief with none in sight. Lost in a dark, never-ending tunnel, looking for a way out. No light, no hope, and no direction. There is a stigma attached to being a Christian suffering from depression because we believe this is not supposed to happen to real Christians. After all, aren't we to be content in all things? We are to put on the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness. How do we share our condition with other Christians who are void of understanding? We are not alone in our fight to drive this beast out of our lives. There are millions fighting this battle each day. Searching for the light at the end of the tunnel. The time has come to talk about depression in Christianity.

Christianity and Depression Tasia Scrutton, 2020-03-31 It is now universally accepted that we are experiencing a profound mental health epidemic and too often Christians have struggled to know how to respond The need for the church to take mental health issues more seriously is urgent and this is perhaps especially true when it comes to understanding depression Offering a theological and biblical account of depression this book considers how depression has been understood and interpreted by Christians and how plausible and pastorally helpful these understandings are It offers an important and well informed resource for those with or preparing for positions of pastoral responsibility within the Christian Church With a foreword by John Swinton Darkness and Daylight, Or, Lights and Shadows of New York Life Helen

Enjoying the Song of Phrase: An Emotional Symphony within Suicidal Darkness

In a world taken by monitors and the ceaseless chatter of quick conversation, the melodic beauty and emotional symphony developed by the prepared term frequently diminish into the back ground, eclipsed by the persistent sound and distractions that permeate our lives. Nevertheless, located within the pages of Suicidal Darkness a marvelous fictional prize full of raw thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Constructed by an outstanding musician of language, this charming masterpiece conducts readers on a mental journey, skillfully unraveling the concealed melodies and profound affect resonating within each cautiously crafted phrase. Within the depths of this emotional evaluation, we will investigate the book's main harmonies, analyze their enthralling writing design, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers' souls.
