Management language English abstract If you take the words of a former General Electric's GE employee to define strategy William E Rothschild said What do you want to achieve or avoid The answers to this question are objectives How will you go about achieving your desired results The answer to this you can call strategy This statement not only highlights the need for strategy but also the need to bring strategy to fruition Companies should not only devise strategy but also successfully clarify and execute their strategies This means that a company has to be able to measure its strategic success Unfortunately company strategy is not always transparent or understood in the same way by a company's key players Sun Tzu a Chinese military strategist who wrote the military treatise The Art of War praised this aspect for strategies in war as follows All men can see these tactics whereby I conquer but what none can see is the strategy out of which victory is evolved The Strategy Map created by Kaplan and Norton is to facilitate corporate strategy development and execution providing a missing link between strategy formulation and strategy implementation by identifying the key internal processes that drive strategic success and by aligning investment in people technology and organizational capital for the greatest impact The first part of the assignment describes in detail the theoretical framework of Strategy Maps The second part uses the theory to describe and visualize the Strategy Map of General Electric Medical Systems GEMS the world's leading manufacturer of diagnostic imaging equipment This practical approach is based on the publication of Tarun Khanna about GEMS in the Harvard Business School Press in Strategy Maps, 2018 More than a decade ago Robert S Kaplan and David P Norton introduced the Balanced Scorecard a revolutionary performance measurement system that allowed organizations to quantify intangible assets such as people information and customer relationships Then in The Strategy Focused Organization Kaplan and Norton showed how organizations achieved breakthrough performance with a management system that put the Balanced Scorecard into action Now using their ongoing research with hundreds of Balanced Scorecard adopters across the globe the authors have created a powerful new tool the strategy map that enables companies to describe the links between intangible assets and value creation with a clarity and precision never before possible Kaplan and Norton argue that the most critical aspect of strategy implementing it in a way that ensures sustained value creation depends on managing four key internal processes operations customer relationships innovation and regulatory and social processes The authors show how companies can use strategy maps to link those processes to desired outcomes evaluate measure and improve the processes most critical to success and target investments in human informational and organizational capital Providing a visual aha for executives everywhere who can't figure out why their strategy isn't working Strategy Maps is a blueprint any organization can follow to align processes people and information technology for superior performance Harvard Business Review, 2004
