Non-steroidal Anti-inflammatory Drugs IARC Working Group on the Evaluation of Cancer-preventive Agents, International Agency for Research on Cancer, 1997 The objective of the Handbooks programme is the preparation of critical reviews and evaluations of evidence on the cancer preventive and other relevant properties of a wide range of potential cancer preventive agents and strategies by international working groups of experts In this volume on non steroidal anti inflammatory drugs the following drugs are reviewed Aspirin Sulindac Piroxicam and Indomethacin For each drug their chemical and physical characteristics occurrence production use analysis and human exposure metabolism kinetics and genetic variation are studied as well as their cancer preventive effects other beneficial effects carcinogenicity and other toxic effects A summary of data and recommendations for research are provided at the end Combined Estrogen-progestogen Contraceptives and Combined Estrogen-progestogen Menopausal Therapy IARC Working Group on the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Risks to Humans, International Agency for Research on Cancer, 2007 Oral contraceptives for family planning worldwide have revolutionized the reproductive lives of millions of women since their introduction in the 1960s Later on a variety of side effects including cardiovascular diseases was recognized In response to these concerns new generations of combined oral contraceptives were developed that featured lower dose of estrogen and newer more potent progestogens The effectiveness and ease of use of combined hormonal contraceptives suggest that they will continue to be used to a significant extent in the future This ninety first volume of IARC Monograph Carcinogenicity Kirk T. Kitchin, 2021-12-16 Offers comprehensive coverage of currently available cancer predictors the most recent research on carcinogenicity and the design and interpretation of carcinogenicity experiments Presents mouse rat and human carcinogenicity data for the liver kidney breast cervix prostate hematopoietic system colon skin urinary bladder mouth stomach thyroid and pancreas A Cyclopaedia of Drug Pathogenesis, 1888 Human Papillomaviruses IARC Working Group on the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Risks to Humans. Meeting, 2007 This ninetieth volume of the IARC Monographs on the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Risks to Humans considers human papillomaviruses HPVs which were evaluated by a previous Working Group IARC 1995 The monograph in the present volume incorporates new data that have become available during the past decade HPVs represent the most common infectious agents that are transmitted sexually throughout the world the major risk factors are behaviors associated with sexual activity Although most infections are asymptomatic and are cleared within a period of 2 years genital HPV infection can lead to clinical disease including anogenital warts cervical neoplasia cervical cancer and other anogenital cancers The risk for persistence of infection and progression of the more than 40 genital HPV types to grade 3 cervical intraepithelial neoplasia CIN3 and cancer differs widely Persistent infection with carcinogenic HPVs occurs in virtually all cases of cervical cancer Previous evaluations of HPVs have classified types 16 and 18 as carcinogenic to humans group 1 types 31 and 33 as probably carcinogenic to humans Group 2A and some types other than 16 18 31 and 33 as possibly carcinogenic to humans Group 2B At that time the evaluation of types 16 and 18 was based on the strong association between infection with these HPVs and cervical cancer For types 31 and 33 the association was less strong The new epidemiological data reviewed in the present volume strongly support and further confirm the previous evaluation of types 16 and 18 and provide new evidence for other HPVs This information which includes strong evidence of carcinogenicity at sites other than the cervix supports new evaluations for several other HPV types in addition to those mentioned above Since the Working Group was convened in 2005 important innovations in HPV prophylaxis have occurred and these needed to be included in this volume To date two prophylactic vaccines have been developed and used in large multicentric trials This prophylactic vaccination is expected to reduce the incidence of HPV related genital diseases However the benefits of prophylactic vaccines in a broad public health perspective will be achieved only if such vaccines can be provided to those groups of women for whom access to cervical cancer screening services is most problematic Therefore the development of second generation vaccines that are expected to be cheaper easier to deliver and to provide T cell response against pre existing HPV infections is highly desirable
