Supernaturalism in Human Life Jacob Pandian,2002      Shakespeariana; a critical and contemporary review of Shakespearian literature ,1892      The true forces, sermons, tr. by Y. Oswin J Jean Auriault,1899      Symbolism in Terrorism Jonathan Matusitz,2014-09-16 The symbolic value of targets is what differentiates terrorism from other forms of extreme violence Terrorism is designed to inflict deep psychological wounds on an enemy rather than demolish its material ability to fight The September 11 2001 attacks for example demonstrated the power of symbolism The World Trade Center was targeted by Al Qaeda because the Twin Towers epitomized Western civilization U S imperialism financial success modernity and freedom The symbolic character of terrorism is the focus of this textbook A comprehensive analysis it incorporates descriptions definitions case studies and theories Each chapter focuses on a specific dimension of symbolism in terrorism and explains the contexts and processes that involve the main actors as well as the symbolism of both the purposes and targets of terrorism Also discussed are new religious movements which represent another important aspect of terrorism such as Aum Shinrikyo the Japanese cult that used sarin gas in the Tokyo subway in 1995 Over forty areas of symbolism are covered throughout the chapters including physical and non physical symbolism linguistic symbolism the social construction of reality rituals myths performative violence iconoclasm brand management logos semiotics new media and the global village This allows for an in depth examination of many issues such as anti globalization honor killing religious terrorism suicide terrorism martyrdom weapons female terrorism public communication visual motifs and cyberspace Main concepts are clearly defined and followed by theory illustrated by international case studies Chapter summaries key points review questions research and practice suggestions are recurring components as well This groundbreaking text encompasses all major aspects of symbolism in terrorism and will be an essential resource for anyone studying terrorism      Diversity and Universality in Causal Cognition Sieghard Beller,Andrea Bender,Michael R. Waldmann,2017-12-12 Causality is one of the core concepts in any attempt to make sense of the world and the explanations people come up with shape their judgments emotions intentions and actions This renders causal cognition a core topic for the social as well as the cognitive sciences In the past however research has been split into diverging paradigms each pertaining to a distinct sub discipline and focusing on a specific domain thus creating a rather fragmented picture of causal cognition Furthermore most of this previous research paid only incidental attention to culture as a possibly constitutive factor leaving important questions unanswered Is causality always perceived in the same way Are causal explanations affected by the concepts to which people refer and or the language they use Is causal cognition domain specific and if so how does it differ from agency construal Is causal reasoning always based on the same cognitive mechanisms or does the cultural background of people shape how they process respective information and perhaps even their willingness to search for causal explanations in the first place By soliciting contributions that address questions like these this research topic aimed at assessing the extent to which causal cognition may vary across species cultures or individuals at various stages of their development and at integrating different perspectives across a broad range of disciplines. Originating from the work of a research group funded by the Center for Interdisciplinary Research ZiF at Bielefeld University Germany the scope of this research topic was broadened by inviting additional contributions from researchers with expertise in different fields of causal cognition agency construal and or cultural impacts on cognition. In order to fully exploit the potential of cognitive science we explicitly encouraged submissions from scholars from all its classic sub disciplines i e anthropology artificial intelligence linguistics neuroscience philosophy psychology as well as scholars from comparative psychology cognitive archeology economics and any other discipline interested in causal cognition. We welcomed empirical findings as well as theoretical contributions with an emphasis on those factors that do or may constrain trigger or shape the way in which humans and other primates think about causal relationships and inform us about both the diversity and the universality of causal cognition. The truth of Christianity, an examination of the arguments. [2 issues]. William Harry Turton, 1900 The Self-revelation of God Samuel Harris, 1886

Visions of the Future and Other Discourses Octavius Brooks Frothingham, 1879 General Introduction to the Study of Holy Scripture Charles Augustus Briggs, 1899 Catholic World, 1872 The Reign of Law George Douglas Campbell "of" Argyll, 1871 THE MONTH. A CATHOLIC MAGAZINE AND REVIEW., 1884 Friends' Intelligencer and Journal, 1890 The Myths of the Opossum Alfredo López Austin, 1993 Published in 1990 under the title Los mitos del tlacuache this is the first major theoretical study of Mesoamerican mythology by one of the foremost scholars of Aztec ideology. Using the myth cycle of the opossum and the theft of fire from the gods as a touchstone Lopez Austin constructs a definition of myth that pertains to all of Mesoamerican culture challenging the notion that to be relevant such studies must occur within a specific culture. Shown here is that much of modern mythology has ancient roots despite syncretism with Christianity and can be used to elucidate the pre Columbian world view. Analysis of pre Columbian myths can also be used to understand current indigenous myths. Subtopics include the hero and his place in the Mesoamerican pantheon divine space and human space mythic event clusters myth as truth and the fusion of myth and history. This book presents a unique description of the Mesoamerican world view for students of comparative religion history of religion folklore ethnology and anthropology. Notes on Books, Being a Quarterly Analysis of the Works Published by Messrs. Longmans and Co., 1885 Dictionary of Doctrinal and Historical Theology John Henry Blunt, 1872 Meditations on Christian Dogma James Bellord, 1898 Orthodoxy James Freeman Clarke, 1889 The Problem of Problems and Its Various Solutions Clark Braden, 1876 Rewriting the Women of Camelot Ann F. Howey, 2001-02-28 Though firmly rooted in the Middle Ages Arthurian legend has captivated readers since Caxton and Malory and continues to thrive today. By looking at contemporary reworkings of Arthuriana this book explores the intersection of popular fiction and feminist discourses in Western society. It examines selected Arthurian novels and short stories by such women writers as Fay Sampson Mary

Stewart Gillian Bradshaw and Marion Zimmer Bradley to analyze the textual strategies that articulate feminist ideas While these texts maintain continuity with established literary traditions through the replication of conventions their reworking of women s roles encourages readers to engage liberal feminist ideology The book first gives an overview of theories of popular fiction feminism and reading It then surveys the medieval texts on which the Arthurian tradition is founded and which the contemporary texts rewrite The chapters that follow discuss how popular contemporary women writers have reworked Arthurian legend through their narrative strategies and their representation of female character types such as the royal woman and the magical woman
