Supporting Lifelong Learning: Perspectives on learning Roger Harrison,2002 This book brings together a number of texts to illustrate explore and challenge some of the ideas and assumptions which underpin notions of lifelong learning It argues that the learning aspect of lifelong learning has received surprisingly little attention in discussions of how to promote more effective and inclusive approaches In examining this issue more closely it will appeal to those who are involved in supporting learners in the workplace the classroom or community It will also appeal to postgraduate and doctorate level students with an interest in post school education and training Supporting Lifelong Learning Richard Edwards,2001 Supporting

Lifelong Learning: Perspectives on learning Roger Harrison,2002 This Open University Reader examines the practices of learning and teaching which have been developed to support lifelong learning and the understanding and assumptions which underpin them The selection of texts trace the widening scope of academic understanding of learning and teaching and considers the implications for those who develop programmes of learning It examines in great depth those theories which have had the greatest impact in the field theories of reflection and learning from experience and theories of situated learning The implications of these theories are examined in relation to themes which run across the reader namely workplace learning literacies and the possibilities offered by information and communication technologies The particular focus of this Reader is on the psychological or cognitive phenomena that happen in the minds of individual learners The readings have been selected to represent a range of experience in different sectors of education from around the globe Medical Education: Theory and Practice E-Book Tim Dornan,Karen V. Mann,Albert J J A Scherpbier,John A. Spencer,2011-12-02 Medical Promoting Critical Practice in Adult Education Jennifer A. Sandlin,2004-07 Offering theoretical and practical knowledge to help critical adult educators in their attempts to enact critical pedagogy in their own classroom this volume explores critical theory feminism critical postmodernism Africentrism queer theory and cultural studies Picking up on the themes first raised by Elizabeth Ellsworth critical theory and classic critical pedagogy do not get a particularly easy ride None of the authors claims that critical approaches are a simple solution to the tangles of late modernity In every case the authors see critical pedagogy as complex insightful challenging limited and difficult to put into practice But in every case they see critical perspectives as offering the hope and potential of a more just world The idea that critical perspectives on teaching are difficult to enact in the classroom is not new And what do we mean by critical perspectives anyway In this volume some of the most exciting scholars in adult education whether established or emerging provide insights into what it means to be critical and how it affects the concrete practices of teaching adults This is the 102nd issue of the quarterly higher education report New Directions for Adult and Continuing Education Dimensions of Professional Learning Amanda Berry,2007

The contributors to this volume explore challenges and dilemmas around professional learning that confront educators in Australia. The book is organised around three dimensions of professional learning: professionalism, identity formation and communal sites of professional learning. It addresses important questions: In what ways do policies and practices mediate the construction of a professional among current and future educators? How do communal spaces shape the professional learning of educators? What are the tensions that emerge in the construction of professional identity through professional learning? As a whole, all chapters provide insight into the dynamic nature of professional becoming. Adult Education Quarterly, 2003
