Edgar Rice Burroughs was an American writer known for the creation of legendary characters such as Tarzan and John Carter. Burroughs wrote many other well-read science fiction and fantasy stories, but the Tarzan and Barsoom collections remain timeless classics. The Master Mind of Mars is the 6th book in the John Carter Series.

It was in the Fall of nineteen seventeen at an officers training camp that I first became acquainted with John Carter War Lord of Barsoom through the pages of your novel A Princess of Mars. The story made a profound impression upon me and while my better judgment assured me that it was but a highly imaginative piece of fiction a suggestion of the verity of it pervaded my inner consciousness to such an extent that I found myself dreaming of Mars and John Carter of Dejah Thoris of Tars Tarkas and of Woola as if they had been entities of my own experience rather than the figments of your imagination. It is true that in those days of strenuous preparation there was little time for dreaming yet there were brief moments before sleep claimed me at night and these were my dreams. Such dreams Always of Mars and during my waking hours at night my eyes always sought out the Red Planet when he was above the horizon and clung there seeking a solution of the seemingly unfathomable riddle he has presented to the Earthman for ages. Perhaps the thing became an obsession I know it clung to me all during my training camp days and at night on the deck of the transport I would lie on my back gazing up into the red eye of the god of battle my god and wishing that like John Carter I might be drawn across the great void to the haven of my desire.

This one has some horror elements in it that really make it sing. Sword Planet as it should be done. However it doesn't feature John Carter but Ulysses Paxton, an admirer of John Carter who also gets transported to Mars. I didn't think there was any letdown for going with a new character.
