The Middle Years:

Academic Literacies in the Middle Years Sally Humphrey, 2016-11-18 The professional learning framework this book presents is designed to support teachers' understandings of how language functions in their academic disciplines. This framework's 4 x 4 metalinguistic toolkit is informed by systemic functional linguistic theory and international educational research on academic and disciplinary literacies. The book shows and explains how teachers have applied specific 4 x 4 toolkits with students in middle school classrooms across a range of subjects for curriculum literacy instruction, assessment and feedback, resulting in substantial growth for their students in high stakes national tests of literacy as well as writing assessments in a number of subjects. In its focus on disciplinary literacies in diverse sociocultural settings, Academic Literacies in the Middle Years responds to contemporary international curricula for English language and literacy and the need for a strong evidence base for professional learning design.

Safe at Last in the Middle Years Margaret Marganroth Gullette, 2016-02-16 Discovering the midlife progress novel, Gullette finds in recent fiction a pervasive tension between decline and a new ideology of aging. Appropriately, she invites the reader to join the writers in their therapeutic discourse.

Rosemary Franklin American Literature This book certainly makes you think. What is it that can happen in middle age to make it as it is for many people the clearest and sweetest time of life?

The Middle Ages

Frank N. Magill, 2012-11-12 Each volume of the Dictionary of World Biography contains 250 entries on the lives of the individuals who shaped their times and left their mark on world history. This is not a who's who. Instead, each entry provides an in-depth essay on the life and career of the individual concerned. Essays commence with a quick reference section that provides basic facts on the individual's life and achievements. The extended biography places the life and works of the individual within an historical context, and the summary at the end of each essay provides a synopsis of the individual's place in history. All entries conclude with a fully annotated bibliography.

Belonging, Identity, Time and Young People's Engagement in the Middle Years of School Seth Brown, Peter Kelly, Scott K. Phillips, 2020-09-19 This book explores the complex ways in which belonging, identity and time are entangled in shaping young people's engagement with the middle years of school. The authors argue that these entanglements need to be understood in ways that move beyond a focus on why individual young people engage with the middle years. Instead, there should be a focus on the socio-ecologies of particular places and the ways in which these ecologies shape the possibilities of young people engaging productively in the middle years. Drawing on extensive qualitative data from an outer urban metropolitan context, this book will appeal to scholars of sociology, education and policy studies.

Renaissance Humanism, from the Middle Ages to Modern Times John Monfasani, 2016-12-05 Starting with an essay on the Renaissance as the concluding phase of the Middle Ages and ending with appreciations of Paul Oskar Kristeller, the great twentieth-century scholar of the Renaissance, this new volume by John Monfasani brings together seventeen articles that focus both on individuals such as Erasmus of Rotterdam Angelo Poliziano Marsilio Ficino and Niccol Perotti and on large scale movements such as the spread of Italian humanism Ciceronianism Biblical criticism and the Plato Aristotle Controversy In addition to entering into the persistent debate on the nature of the Renaissance the articles in the volume also engage what of late have become controversial topics namely the shape and significance of Renaissance humanism and the character of the Platonic Academy in Florence

The Middle Years is a short story by Henry James first published in Scribner s Magazine in 1893 It may be the most affecting and profound of James s stories about writers The novelist in the tale speculates that he has spent his whole life learning how to write so a second life would make sense to apply the lesson Second lives aren t usually available so the novelist says of himself and his fellow artists We work in the dark we do what we can we give what we have Our doubt is our passion and our passion is our task The rest is the madness of art Dencombe a novelist who has been seriously ill is convalescing at the English seaside town of Bournemouth He is sitting near the water and reading his latest book entitled of course The Middle Years A young physician named Dr Hugh comes over to Dencombe and begins to talk about his admiration for the novel though he doesn t realize that he s speaking to the book s author The weakened Dencombe suddenly loses consciousness When he revives he finds that Dr Hugh has recognized him and that the physician is also attending a wealthy woman referred to only as the Countess Over the next few days Dr Hugh pays more attention to Dencombe than to the Countess and he is warned about this by the wealthy woman s companion Miss Vernham A few days later Dencombe relapses Dr Hugh tells Dencombe that the Countess has died and left him nothing in her will Close to death Dencombe whispers to Dr Hugh the eloquent words quoted above The tale s final sentence tells how Dencombe s first and only chance at life and art has ended

The Dance of Death in the Middle Ages Elina Gertsman,2010 Elina Gertsman s multifaceted study introduces readers to the imagery and texts of the Dance of Death an extraordinary subject that first emerged in western European art and literature in the late medieval era Conceived from the start as an inherently public image simultaneously intensely personal and widely accessible the medieval Dance of Death proclaimed the inevitability of death and declared the futility of human ambition Gertsman inquires into the theological socio historic literary and artistic contexts of the Dance of Death exploring it as a site of interaction between text image and beholder Pulling together a wide variety of sources and drawing attention to those images that have slipped through the cracks of the art historical canon Gertsman examines the visual textual aural pastoral and performative discourses that informed the creation and reception of the Dance of Death and proposes different modes of viewing for several paintings each of which invited the beholder to participate in an active kinesthetic experience
