The Of Space:

Performance and the Politics of Space Erika Fischer-Lichte, Benjamin Wihstutz, 2013 From its very beginnings theatre has been both an art and a public space shared by actors and spectators As a result its entity and history is intimately tied to politics a politics of inclusion and exclusion of distributions and placements of spatial appropriation and utopian concepts This collection examines what is at stake when a theatrical space is created and when a performance takes place it asks under what circumstances the topology of theatre becomes political The book approaches this issue from various angles taking theatre as a cultural paradigm for political dimensions of space in its respective historical context Visiting the political dimensions of theatrical space in both theatre history and contemporary performance the volume responds to the so called spatial turn in cultural and historical studies and questions a politics of aesthetics that is discussed in continental philosophy The book visits different levels and linkages between aesthetic theory and geography art and sociology architecture and political theory and geometry and history shedding new light on theatre politics and space thereby transforming this historically intertwined triad into a transdisciplinary theme

The Location of Religion Kim Knott, 2005 The book begins by developing a spatial methodology to analyse secular and post secular religious relations The spatial approach is then applied to a particular case that of the left hand Our understanding of this sinister but intimate other draws on a wide range of ideas from different religious traditions to alternative paths to salvation and self realisation

Spaces of Belonging Elizabeth H. Jones, 2007-01-01 Questions of space place and identity have become increasingly prominent throughout the arts and humanities in recent times This study begins by investigating the reasons for this growth in interest and analyses the underlying assumptions on which interdisciplinary discussions about space are often based After tracing back the history of contact between Geography and Literary Studies from both disciplinary perspectives it goes on to discuss recent academic work in the field and seeks to forge a new conceptual framework through which contemporary discussions of space and literature can operate The book then moves on to a thorough application of the interdisciplinary model that it has established Having argued that the experience of contemporary space has rendered questions of home and belonging particularly pressing it undertakes detailed analysis of how these phenomena are articulated in a selection of recent French life writing texts The close text led readings reveal that whilst not often highlighted for their relevance to the analysis of space these works do in fact narrate the impact of some of the most significant cultural experiences of the twentieth century including the Holocaust and the AIDS crisis upon geo cultural senses of identity Home is shown to be a deeply problematic yet strongly desired element of the contemporary world The book concludes by addressing the underlying thesis that contemporary life writing might provide just the postmodern maps that could help not only literary scholars but also geographers better understand the world today Key names and concepts Serge Doubrovsky Herv Guibert Fredric Jameson Philippe Lejeune R gine Robin Autofiction Cultural Geography Interdisciplinarity Place and Identity Postmodernism Space Postmodern Space
