Soviet Agriculture:

The Years of Hunger: Soviet Agriculture, 1931-1933 R. Davies, S. Wheatcroft, 2016-01-13 This book examines the Soviet agricultural crisis of 1931-1933 which culminated in the major famine of 1933. It is the first volume in English to make extensive use of Russian and Ukrainian central and local archives to assess the extent and causes of the famine. It reaches new conclusions on how far the famine was organized or artificial and compares it with other Russian and Soviet famines and with major twentieth century famines elsewhere. Against this background it discusses the emergence of collective farming as an economic and social system.

Khrushchev and the Development of Soviet Agriculture Martin McCauley, 2016-01-03 Crisis in Soviet Agriculture Stefan Hedlund, 2019-08-06 This book first published in 1984 analyses the institutions and decision making processes that determined agricultural production in the Soviet Union. It addresses the crisis in Soviet agriculture of the early 1980s examining the problems of low productivity, adverse natural conditions and an underdeveloped infrastructure. The book's analysis of the crisis focuses on the growing gap between demand and supply of agricultural produce and the pressures on the government to alleviate the food shortages.

Khrushchev and the Development of Soviet Agriculture Martin McCauley, 1976 Soviet Agriculture in Perspective Erich Strauss, 2023-06-14 Soviet Agriculture in Perspective 1969 examines the framework within which Soviet agriculture had to operate from the start: the dilemma of a revolutionary regime in a backward peasant country, the straightjacket of a bureaucratic system inherited from Tsarism, made even more rigid by the internal tensions of the new society and the imperative needs of economic development. In analysing Soviet agricultural policy it looks at the appropriate volume of agricultural output, the need for massive capital investment, the level of prices and costs and the optimum size of a farm.

Prospects for Soviet Agriculture in the 1980s David Gale Johnson, Karen McConnell Brooks, 1983 Soviet Agriculture Harry G. Shaffer, 1977 Compilation of articles on the contribution of the agricultural sector to economic development in the USSR examines Soviet agricultural policy, the impact of collective farming, the attempt to equalize living conditions in rural areas and urban areas, the socialist transformation of agriculture and the achievements and prospects for increased efficiency etc. References and statistical tables.

The Private Sector in Soviet Agriculture Karl Eugen Wädekin, 1973-01-01 A Survey of Soviet Russian Agriculture Lazar Volin, 1951 The Food Revolution In The Soviet Union And Eastern Europe Robert Deutsch, 2019-07-11 The first study in the Western world to compare the relationship between food and politics in the countries of Eastern Europe, this book views the current food revolution as part of the modernization process. Robert Deutsch argues that the communist leaders in the Comecon countries increasingly link political stability and preservation of power to the problem of satisfying consumer demand. He also assesses the various social forces that have brought about the food revolution. The most important is the expanded working class which is no longer willing to defer consumer demands to a hypothetical communist future. The CMEA countries thus face the dilemma of either gradually liberalizing their economies in order to meet growing consumer demands or resorting to repression Neither of these options promises a long term solution for implementing economic policies prescribed by Marxist Leninist doctrine Robert Deutsch presents case studies of Hungary Bulgaria and the German Democratic Republic as examples of the relative success of economic reforms To a greater or lesser extent these countries have opted for economic decentralization by liberalizing private ownership and pricing policy and by integrating planning with market oriented concepts The author compares this with the economic problems of the Soviet Union Poland Romania and Czechoslovakia The study is enhanced by an exhaustive bibliography arranged topically and drawn from the specialized literature in several languages

Private Agriculture in the Soviet Union Stefan Hedlund, 2019-08-06 First published in 1989 Perestroika it was widely believed must succeed in agriculture before permanent change could be affected elsewhere in the Soviet economy But Soviet agriculture had so far remained stubbornly inefficient and resistant to change In this book Stefan Hedlund investigates the reasons for this state of affairs The author gives an account of the emergence development and performance of private agriculture in the Soviet Union In particular he describes the essentials of the peculiarly Soviet hybrid of private and socialized agriculture He places the private sector within the broader framework of Soviet agriculture He saw Soviet agriculture as a Black Hole ready to absorb any resources that came near be they private plots urban gardens factory workshops or military units Hedlund also examines the impact on the peasants as producers of decades of negative ideological pronouncements in Party propaganda and of discrimination and at times outright harassment by local officials He points out that this background makes the prospect of any positive response from the peasants to Gorbachev's call for perestroika in agriculture extremely unlikely
