Genetics and Genomics of Setaria Andrew Doust, Xianmin Diao, 2016-12-19 Setaria viridis and S. italica make up a model grass system to investigate C4 photosynthesis cell wall biosynthesis responses to drought herbicide and other environmental stressors genome dynamics developmental genetics and morphology and interactions with microorganisms Setaria viridis green foxtail is one of the world's most widespread weeds and its small size native variation rapidly burgeoning genetic and genomic resources and transformability are making it the system of choice for both basic research and its translation into crop improvement Its domesticated variant S. italica foxtail millet is a drought hardy cereal grown in China India and Africa and new breeding techniques show great potential for improving yields and nutrition for drought prone regions This book brings together for the first time evolutionary genomic genetic and morphological analyses together with protocols for growing and transforming Setaria and approaches to high throughput genotyping and candidate gene analysis Authors include major Setaria researchers from both the USA and overseas New Age Journal, 1997

Transcriptional and Epigenetic Landscapes of Abiotic Stress Response in Plants Aamir W. Khan, Yezhang Ding, Mehanathan Muthamilarasan, 2025-01-31 The scientific community is currently focusing on climate resilience to ensure food and nutritional security Understanding the molecular mechanisms underlying stress response is the key to tweaking the key regulators for enhancing this trait Climate resilience is a dynamic process controlled by transcriptional and epigenetic regulators Therefore it is imperative to study transcriptional changes and epigenetic modifications regulating stress responses and manipulate candidate genes alleles QTLs mQTLs to achieve biotic and abiotic stress resilience To recognize the full landscape of variations driving these phenotypic changes multi omics approaches must be used to understand these factors along with genetic variations To feed the ever growing population and tackle the uncertainties in environmental changes deploying genomics and sequencing is a viable solution Plant cells must modify their chromatin states and adjust their transcriptional profile to respond better to environmental stimuli These chromatin modifications include DNA methylation histone variants post transcriptional histone modifications and variations in non coding RNA activities Exploring transcriptional dynamics and epigenetic changes simultaneously with the natural variations present in the population sub population is necessary This will provide us with a full picture of different mechanisms driving the phenotypic changes and will help in developing better resilient varieties by utilizing this multi omics driven knowledge Agro-Morphological and Nutritional Profiling of Crops Sapna Langyan, Tarun Belwal, Chunpeng Wan, Pranjal Yadava, Tanushri Kaul, 2023-11-21

SCS-TP, 1978 Microbe Empowering Green Agriculture and Boosting Productivity and Quality Bin Zhou, Qin Qin, Tanveer Ahmad, Huayi Chen, 2025-11-25 A report published by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO indicates that over 95% of the food production of the whole world comes from land but human induced soil degradation affects 34% of agricultural land 1.66 billion hectares From 2000 to 2017 per capita land area decreased by 20% but there is very little high yield land available for further development The development of efficient and sustainable agriculture is urgent More and more reports indicate that microorganisms play an important role in improving soil quality crop quality and yield Reasonable use of microorganisms can effectively assist in the development of efficient and green agriculture and boost productivity and quality The promotion of green planting models such as intercropping and relay cropping and the use of green agricultural inputs has greatly improved soil quality as well as crop yield and quality The prevention and control of soil borne diseases as well as soil degradation and conservation have greatly affected the development of efficient and green agriculture Numerous research cases have already demonstrated the important role of microorganisms in these processes and have explained their mechanisms However with the development of new technologies and products more unclear mechanisms are gradually being uncovered We hope to elucidate the mechanisms of microorganisms from multiple perspectives both qualitative and quantitative to help researchers and farmers better understand and utilize microorganisms and apply them in practical production This Research Topic seeks high quality original research articles reviews and mini reviews on mechanism research perspectives and opinions etc The scopes are welcomed but not limited to a Green planting models such as intercropping and crop rotation or non chemical control methods may lead to changes in soil or rhizosphere microorganisms The mechanisms and cases of how these microbial changes improve crop yield and quality should be highlighted b The mechanisms especially microbiological by which green agricultural inputs such as organic fertilizers soil amendments and plant growth regulators activate soil nutrients improve nutrient utilization and enhance soil quality c The development of compost products bio organic fertilizers and microbial agents as well as their application in controlling soil borne diseases d The mechanisms of microorganisms in soil degradation and conservation as well as soil carbon sequestration and emission reduction e The influence of microorganisms on sustainable agriculture through plant growth promotion plant health plant nutrient acquisition and plant disease processes agricultural control as well as the mechanisms involved

,2023-11-16 In the last two decades plant biology has developed rapidly ranging from molecular genetics cell biology and physiology to ecology and evolutionary issues both for economic species and species unrelated to humans These topics have received intensive attention however there is still a large gap in the study of plant biology in prehistoric times especially those closely related to humans The identification of plant species in archaeological sites plays an important role in exploring the paleoenvironment the origin and spread of agriculture and the relationship between humans and nature In this research topic we welcome progress in all aspects of ancient plant fossil research especially phytoliths starches pollen and carbonized seeds from the mechanisms of plant fossil formation to their phytosystematics and the associated paleoecology and paleoenvironment Proceedings of the Association of Official Seed Analysts Association of Official Seed Analysts. Natural Diversity in the New Millennium Joanna M. Cross,Chiarina Darrah,Nnadozie Oraguzie,Nourollah Ahmadi,Aleksandra Skirycz,2016-09-06 Natural diversity has been extensively used to understand plant biology and improve crops However studies were commonly based on visual phenotypes or on a few measurable parameters Nowadays a large number of parameters can be measured thanks to next generation sequencing metabolomics proteomics and transcriptomics thus providing an unprecedented resolution in the detection of natural diversity This enhanced resolution offers new possibilities in terms of understanding plant biology Technology advances also contribute to a better assessment of the biodiversity loss currently taking place Hence the topic presents an overview on efforts for maintaining biological diversity in crops on possibilities offered by recent technologies in the assessment of natural variation and ends with examples of the diversity found even at the cellular level Twelfth California Alfalfa Symposium ,1982 California Alfalfa Symposium
