Taxation In Modern China:

Taxation in Modern China Donald J. S. Brean, 2013-10-23 Taxation in Modern China is concerned with tax and public financial issues arising in China's economic transition. The contributors among the leading authorities on public finance, transitional economics, and policy reform in China direct attention to the largest and most comprehensive fiscal reform program in modern history. The essays collected here cover the main institutional, intergovernmental, and industrial issues and address the long-term challenges facing China as well as transitional changes. Contemporary Studies on Modern Chinese History Zeng Yeying, 2021-03-15 The study of modern Chinese history has developed rapidly in recent decades and has seen increased exploration of new topics and innovative approaches. Resulting from a special issue of Modern Chinese History Studies, this set is devoted to showcasing the healthy development of Chinese modern history studies and has already been revised twice in the original language. This three-volume set exhibits major achievements on the study of modern Chinese history and shows how the role of history was in debate, transformation, and re-evaluation throughout this tortuous yet prosperous period. Articles on 23 different topics are collected from over 30 prominent historians in order to represent their insights on the developmental paths of Chinese historical studies. Drawing on a large number of case studies of critical historical events that contribute to the establishment of the People's Republic of China, this set offers a panoramic view on the studies of modern Chinese history. In addition, it incorporates more pioneering topics such as intellectual history, cultural history, and translations of overseas studies on contemporary Chinese history. This set will be a valuable reference for scholars and students of Chinese history. Interactions Between Chinese Tax Incentives and WTO's Subsidy Rules Against the Background of EU State Aid Diheng Xu, 2023-06-14 The book provides insights to the alleviation of tensions between Chinese tax incentives and the WTO's subsidy rules, thus further offering implications for both China and the WTO on integrating in the world economy. Moreover, doing a comparative study with EU State aid law can also provide China with a source of inspiration for reviewing its legal mechanism in respect of tax incentives and the WTO for rethinking its subsidy rules with regard to achieving its objectives and purposes. Academics and students in related subject will be interested to read the book. Practitioners doing business related to China, EU, and international trade can be very interested in this book. Policymakers in both China and EU can also get valuable knowledge and inspiration from the book. Chinese Historiography of the Last Forty Years (1978-2018) II, 2023-08-29 Chinese Historiography of the Last Forty Years 1978-2018 is an edited volume in which the Chinese historians review the research achievements of the study of history in China in the past 40 years since the reform and opening up in 1978 and create an overview of the academic prospects and trends. Taxation without Representation in Contemporary Rural China Thomas P. Bernstein, Xiaobo Lü, 2003-03-27 The financial burden imposed upon the Chinese farmer by local taxes has become a major source of discontent in the Chinese countryside and a worrisome source of political and social instability for the Chinese government Bernstein and Lü examine the forms and sources of heavy informal taxation and shed light on how peasants defend their interests by adopting strategies of collective resistance both peaceful and violent Bernstein and Lü also explain why the central government while often siding with the peasants has not been able to solve the burden problem by instituting a sound reliable financial system in the countryside While the regime has to some extent sought to empower farmers to defend their interests by informing them about tax rules expanding the legal system and instituting village elections for example these attempts have not yet generated enough power from below to counter powerful local official agencies

BRICS and International Tax Law Peter Antony Wilson, 2016-04-24 With the ongoing expansion of outbound foreign direct investment FDI in the countries representing the BRICS economic bloc Brazil Russia India China and South Africa and with all of them at the same time listed among the top seven countries plagued by tax evasion and avoidance in the guise of illicit outflows the ve governments both individually and through cooperative initiatives have devised new international tax strategies that are proving to be of great interest and value to other countries both developing and developed. The core of these strategies addresses the necessity of stemming the outflow of revenue while strongly supporting FDI both inbound and outbound while complying with international obligations including those arising from human rights laws. This book is the first in depth commentary on this new and evolving area of international tax law. The detailed analysis covers the entire field of BRICS international tax law considering topics such as the following: information exchange procedures and pitfalls; response to the OECD's Base Erosion and Profit Sharing (BEPS) initiative; role of bilateral and multilateral double taxation conventions including the Multilateral Instrument and the Bilateral Investment Treaties; thin capitalization; transfer pricing; controlled foreign corporation rules; shortcomings related to authorities' limited manpower; international audit and investigation procedures; the BRICS approach to residence and mandatory and binding arbitration; and the BRICS approach to shaping the developing world's international tax system. Notably, the author personally conducted interviews with senior international representatives of the BRICS tax authorities as well as with leading BRICS academics and practitioners. Tax cases together with human rights and investment cases and administrative guidelines in all five countries are also included in the analysis. The study concludes with recommendations for improving each of the five countries' tax law and procedures especially in the area of dispute resolution. The author's goal is to extend the existing body of knowledge of the BRICS international tax laws in order to assist in developing an understanding of the BRICS approach to dealing with evasion and avoidance, an approach which facilitates both outbound and inbound FDI, simplifies tax authority administration and establishes a basis for resolving international disputes which is compatible with sovereignty. In achieving this objective, the author has produced a major work that is of immeasurable value to tax advisers, government and governance officials, academics and researchers both in developing international taxation strategies and in helping to resolve disputes with tax authorities.

Modern China's Network Revolution Zhongping Chen, 2011-06-27 Chambers of commerce developed in China as a key part of its sociopolitical changes. In 1902 the first Chinese chamber of commerce appeared in Shanghai. By the time the Qing dynasty ended over 1,000 general chambers, affiliated chambers and branch chambers had been established throughout China. In this new work, author Zhongping Chen examines Chinese chambers of commerce and their network development across Lower Yangzi cities and towns as well as the nationwide arena. He details how they achieved increasing integration and how their collective actions deeply influenced nationalistic, reformist and revolutionary movements. His use of network analysis reveals how these chambers promoted social integration beyond the bourgeoisie and other elites and helped bring society and the state into broader and more complicated interactions than existing theories of civil society and public sphere suggest. With both historical narrative and theoretical analysis of the long neglected local chamber networks, this study offers a keen historical understanding of the interaction of Chinese society, business and politics in the early twentieth century. It also provides new knowledge produced from network theory within the humanities and social sciences Improving the Tax System amid the Rule-of-Law China Qiao Wang, Weiqun Xi, 2022-01-15 This book discusses China's tax system presenting a comprehensive and systematic research based on a multidisciplinary approach involving economics finance political science sociology law public administration history and econometrics With China moving toward the rule of law this book proposes reforms to the tax laws and the stratified governance with a view to achieving tax neutrality law based taxation tax equality and tax burden stability It focuses on clarifying the implications extension nature and features of a law based tax system as well as the logical relationships between the optimization of the tax system structure modern governance law based tax administration as well as the tax sharing system of tax collection and the rule of tax law It suggests that optimizing the tax structure reforming the tax sharing system improving local taxes and restructuring the tax collection and management system will push China's tax system toward sound design and rule of law This book is intended for scholars specializing in China's tax system and general readers interested in China's economy

Distributive Institutions Shouwen Zhang, 2020-12-29 The crisis of distribution is one of the longest standing and most complicated issues facing human society Imbued with social political historic and cultural elements it varies significantly across different countries as a result of all these factors As an emerging economy which transferred from a planned to a market economy China has experienced large distribution gaps since it implemented the Reform and Opening up Policy in the early 1980s requiring stronger economic law to mitigate and regulate the crisis of distribution In this second volume the author analyses crises of distribution from a theoretical perspective and proposes law and policy solutions Believing that such crises are a collective result of systematic limitations the author proposes a theoretical framework of system distribution development in order to resolve distribution problems and promote economic development He argues that a crisis of distribution cannot be avoided without coordinated development of economic law and relevant constitutional civil and commercial law systems In addition it is necessary to differentiate the territories industries enterprises and individuals that constitute such diverse systems The book should be of keen interest to researchers and students of law economics and political science

A History of Taxation and Taxes in England Stephen Dowell,1884 Primitive Civilizations Edith Jemima Simcox,1894 Evaluating the Impure Chinese VAT Relative to a Pure Form in a Simple Monetary Trade Model with an Endogenous Trade Surplus John Whalley,Li Wang,2007

China's VAT while seemingly conventional has two major impurities One is that a separate export rebate system exists where rebate rates are linked from rates paid on creditable inputs The other is the use of an income base for which there is no crediting of taxes on capital good rather than the more conventional consumption base with expensing of investment expenditures Here we argue that in a conventional competitive model both impurities would typically involve a welfare loss but if we use a numerical calibrated equilibrium model with a monetary structure capturing by these Chinese features in which the trade surplus is endogenously determined and the exchange rate is exogenously set things are different These impurities effectively act as added taxes on domestic production lowered export rebate rates taxes on a larger VAT base and tax exporting Tax exporting reduces exports which lowers the surplus and accumulation of foreign currency In a static model a reduced surplus is welfare improving Using 2002 data we thus find that China's impure VAT system yields welfare gains in contrast to what a conventional model would show These results are important since there are arguments being made inside and outside China for changes to be made and move closer to a pure VAT Our results suggest that unless there are wider changes first in macro structure such changes may not be welfare preferred
