The Palgrave Environmental Reader:

The Palgrave Environmental Reader Richard Newman,Daniel Payne,2016-04-30 The Palgrave Environmental Reader explores America's evolving fascination with nature and environmental concerns. From the New England Transcendentalists to the UN convention on climate change this book includes works by Thomas Jefferson, Henry David Thoreau, Theodore Roosevelt, Rachel Carson, E.O. Wilson, and others. Consisting of thirty-five important pieces covering a variety of issues, this reader distinguishes itself from other writing on the subject by presenting more extensive excerpts and by emphasizing themes such as environmental activism, racism, and law.

Little Book of Environment and Restorative Justice Wanbli Wapháha Hokšila, Nirson Medeiros da Silva Neto, João Salm, Josineide Gadelha Pamplona Medeiros, 2025-09-16 A restorative approach to environmental justice. This little book discusses paths to address environmental conflicts based on a restorative justice perspective of imagining, practicing, and living justice. It proposes an approach that understands the relationship between humankind and environment beyond the narrow conception of homo economicus, considering the human beings in their social, political, economic, historic, spiritual, cognitive, emotional, aesthetic, and ecological dimensions, as well as in their connection with nature and non-human entities. When applied to environmental problematics, restorative justice needs to widen its perspective beyond an anthropocentric worldview, transcending the interpretation that human beings are the exclusively subjects of dignity, rights, needs, and speech capability. It is necessary to dilate horizons towards non-human entities and the natural spaces we inhabit and with whom we are deeply connected. This dilation should stimulate justice experiences that integrate building peace, sustainability, and good living beyond ideas such as unlimited economic growth and even sustainable development. To this end, a restorative conception of justice implies an expanded understanding of justice that faces structural, cultural, institutional, and historical violence, as well as deals with intergenerational responsibility that integrate the present generations to those of the past in order to build the desired future for the generations to come.

Eco-Concepts Cenk Tan, ISMAIL Serdar Altaç, 2024-04-15 Eco Concepts: Critical Reflections in Emerging Ecocritical Theory and Ecological Thought offers an intellectual journey through the ever-evolving landscapes of environmental discourse. This thought-provoking volume brings together contributors from international scholarship to scrutinize and illuminate the contemporary trends reshaping our understanding of the natural environment. From the intricate interplay of rising ecocritical theories like restoration and empirical ecocriticism to the nuanced shifts in the reimagining of ecological concepts, this book unravels the complexities of our relationship with the natural sphere. This scholarly collection serves as a compass, guiding readers through the uncharted territories of environmental scholarship or revisiting existing study through fresh critical perspectives. Eco Concepts strives to become an essential source of reference for academics, students, and individuals seeking an in-depth exploration of the innovative notions influencing the trajectory of discussions on ecology.

The Child to Come Rebekah Sheldon, 2016-11-01 Generation Anthropocene: Storms of My Grandchildren Our Children

Trust Why do these and other attempts to imagine the planet's uncertain future return us again and again to the image of the child In The Child to Come Rebekah Sheldon demonstrates the pervasive conjunction of the imperiled child and the threatened Earth and blisteringly critiques the logic of catastrophe that serves as its motive and its method Sheldon explores representations of this perilous future and the new figurations of the child that have arisen in response to it Analyzing catastrophe discourse from the 1960s to the present books by Joanna Russ Margaret Atwood and Cormac McCarthy films and television series including Southland Tales Battlestar Galactica and Children of Men and popular environmentalism Sheldon finds the child standing in the place of the human species coordinating its safe passage into the future through the promise of one more generation Yet she contends the child figure emerges bound to the very forces of nonhuman vitality he was forged to contain Bringing together queer theory ecocriticism and science studies The Child to Come draws on and extends arguments in childhood studies about the interweaving of the child with the life sciences Sheldon reveals that neither life nor the child are what they used to be Under pressure from ecological change artificial reproductive technology genetic engineering and the neoliberalization of the economy the queerly human child signals something new the biopolitics of reproduction By promising the pliability of the body's vitality the pregnant woman and the sacred child have become the paradigmatic figures for twenty first century biopolitics

Leave It in the Ground John C.

Berg, 2019-09-03 Employing scientific explanations and hard data this book shows why coal is such a problem how the pro coal forces got to be so powerful and how those forces might be defeated through political activism Coal provided the energy to build modern civilization This energy source raised standards of living multiplied the earth's population and enabled people in developed countries to enjoy leisure time Today we know that if we burn all the coal available climate change will continue to increase But the use of coal isn't purely an environmental issue political and economic forces are also at play This book examines the politics and environmental impact of coal production and distribution presenting a clear point of view that we must shift away from coal use backed by hard data and supplying specific prescriptions for opposing and regulating the coal industry John C Berg explains how ending the burning of coal and of oil and natural gas is a political problem rather than a technical one explodes the clean coal myth providing scientific documentation of how burning coal emits more greenhouse gases per unit of energy than any other fuel and describes how controlling coal use in the United States will also restore the possibility of a meaningful international climate agreement Additionally readers will understand the critical importance of activism from local to international in spurring government regulation to control the coal industry which can only be defeated politically

Palgrave Handbook of Climate History Sam White, Christian Pfister, Franz Mauelshagen, 2018-08-10 This handbook offers the first comprehensive state of the field guide to past weather and climate and their role in human societies. Bringing together dozens of international specialists from the sciences and humanities this volume describes the methods, sources and major findings of historical climate reconstruction and impact research. Its chapters take the reader through each key source of past climate and weather information and each technique of analysis through each historical period and region of the world through the major topics of climate and history and core case studies and finally through the history of climate ideas and science. Using clear non-technical language, The Palgrave Handbook of Climate History serves as a textbook for students, a reference guide for specialists and an introduction to climate history for scholars and interested readers.

Globalization, Environmental Law, and Sustainable Development in the Global South Kirk W. Junker, Paolo Davide Farah, 2021-11-29 This volume examines the impact of globalization on international environmental law and the implementation of sustainable development in the Global South. Comprising contributions from lawyers from the Global South or who have experience in the Global South, this volume is organized into three parts with a thematic inquiry woven through every chapter to ask how law can enable economies that can be sustained given the limited carrying capacity of the earth. Part I describes and characterizes the status quo of environmental and economic problems in the Global South during the process of globalization. Some of those problems include redistribution of environmental burden on the public through over-reliance on the state in emerging economies and the transition to public-private partnerships as well as extreme uncontrolled economic expansion. Building on Part I, Part II takes an international perspective by presenting some tools that are in place during the process of globalization that lead to friction and interfaces between developed and developing economies in environmental law. Recognizing the impossibility of a globalized Northern economy, the authors in Part III present some alternatives through framework ideas of human and civil rights, environmental rights and indigenous persons' rights as well as concrete and specific legal tools to strengthen justice and rule of law institutions. The book gives new perspectives to familiar approaches through concrete examples by professional practitioners and theoretical discourse by academic researchers and can thereby form the basis for changes in practices as well as further discussions and comparisons. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental law, sustainable development and globalization and international relations as well as legal professionals and practitioners.

Writing the Land Daniel G. Payne, 2008 At the time of his death in 1921, John Burroughs (1837-1921) was America's most beloved nature writer, a best-selling author whose friends and admirers included Walt Whitman, Theodore Roosevelt, John Muir, Henry Ford, and Thomas Edison. Burroughs was second only to Emerson in fostering the nature study movement of the nineteenth century and the popularity of his work inspired Houghton Mifflin to publish or reissue the work of numerous other nature writers, including that of Thoreau and Muir. His first collection of essays, Wake Robin, was published in 1871 and over the next fifty years Burroughs wrote almost two dozen books and hundreds of essays not only on nature but on literature travel philosophy religion and science By the turn of the century Burroughs was America TM s most beloved nature writer whose friends and admirers included Walt Whitman Theodore Roosevelt John Muir Henry Ford and Thomas Edison Burroughs died in 1921 while on a train ride back to his New York from California His final words Are we home yet were a remarkably fitting coda to the career of a writer so closely identified with his native Catskill region of New York State In many of his essays Burroughs explores the woods and fields of home and in doing so like Henry Thoreau and his explorations of Concord Massachusetts he transcends the local and examines the universal theme of our relation with nature and our native landscape Burroughs TM s emphasis on place and the local now seems modern once again as the current interest in bioregionalism and climate change demonstrates it has become increasingly evident that thinking locally is thinking globally Since 1992 the SUNY College at Oneonta has hosted the biannual John Burroughs Nature Conference and Seminar Sharp Eyes which honors the influence of Burroughs on American nature writing Distinguished keynote speakers who have addressed the conference include John Elder John Tallmadge Joy Harjo Robin Wall Kimmerer Edward Kanze James Perrin Warren and Edward J Renehan Jr The scope of the conference is not limited solely to Burroughs however as each year the writers and scholars in attendance direct their attention toward a particular issue of significance to contemporary nature writers and scholars of environmental literature The theme of this collection Writing the Land John Burroughs and his Legacy was featured in the 2006 conference and includes essays on John Burroughs as well as essays on the work of other writers who like Burroughs are linked closely through their work to a particular landscape or region The third and final section of this book features invited essays by three distinguished scholars John Tallmadge Robert Beuka and Charlotte Zo Walker who consider the topic of what writing about the land and nature means from three different perspectives urban suburban and rural
