The Parallax View:

The Parallax View Slavoj Žižek, 2009-02-13 In his long awaited magnum opus he theorizes the parallax gap in the ontological, the scientific and the political and rehabilitates dialectical materialism. The Parallax View is Slavoj Žižek's most substantial theoretical work to appear in many years; Žižek himself describes it as his magnum opus. Parallax can be defined as the apparent displacement of an object caused by a change in observational position; Žižek is interested in the parallax gap separating two points between which no synthesis or mediation is possible, linked by an impossible short circuit of levels that can never meet. From this consideration of parallax Žižek begins a rehabilitation of dialectical materialism. Modes of parallax can be seen in different domains of today's theory, from the wave-particle duality in quantum physics to the parallax of the unconscious in Freudian psychoanalysis, between interpretations of the formation of the unconscious and theories of drives. In The Parallax View Žižek, with his usual astonishing erudition, focuses on three main modes of parallax: the ontological difference, the ultimate parallax that conditions our very access to reality, the scientific parallax, the irreducible gap between the phenomenal experience of reality and its scientific explanation which reaches its apogee in today's brain sciences, according to which nobody is home in the skull, just stacks of brain meat; a condition Žižek calls the unbearable lightness of being; no one and the political parallax, the social antagonism that allows for no common ground. Between his discussions of these three modes Žižek offers interludes that deal with more specific topics, including an ethical act in a novel by Henry James and anti-Semitism. The Parallax View not only expands Žižek's Lacanian-Hegelian approach to new domains, notably cognitive brain sciences, but also provides the systematic exposition of the conceptual framework that underlies his entire work. Philosophical and theological analysis, detailed readings of literature, cinema and music coexist with lively anecdotes and obscene jokes.

The Parallax View Katarzyna Owczarek, 2001 Miłosz and his points of contact with Russia is the subject of the present study, which was undertaken in hopes of gaining an insight into the formation of cultural stereotypes. If we follow Jung's assumption that the subconscious is dependent on telluric conditions, the geographical architectonics of Miłosz's birthplace and his epiphany-like encounter with Russia gain the status of the cartography of cultural belonging and of the constant evaluation of the self as well as of explaining one's life and ultimately of finding one's way home and of restoring the sacred dimension. Despite abundant scholarship on Miłosz, there is not a single study which would address Miłosz's mental meanderings concerning Russia. He is most often treated as a poet, and when he is analyzed as an essayist or a prose writer, he loses his complexity because he is treated exclusively as one or the other as a writer with an autobiographical slant or as an author of a political science genre. The interdisciplinary approach employed in this study supports a vision of Russia that is indeed multifarious and constantly shifting. Miłosz's vision of Russia is characterized by duality, which is closely bound to an internal split within Miłosz, the man who is balancing between being alienated from and being reconciled to the human condition. However, this non-univocal quality is a function of the biblical legend of the Fall, which in Miłosz's interpretation becomes a metaphor for human spiritual disinheritance Atrophy of the religious imagination is clearly named by Mi osz as a culprit in the downward spiral of the disintegration of self hood found in the excesses of Stalinism A life destroyed by communism is re created in Mi osz s writings as his tools for reconfiguring a meaningful insight into another culture are reinvented Leaf vi

The Subject of Liberation Charles Wells,2014-07-31 The book shares i ek s central problem of how to revitalize the radical political left through theory It initially follows the argument developed in The Ticklish Subject that contemporary leftist thought is divided by antagonism between a Marxist revolutionary politics founded on Enlightenment philosophy and a politics of identity founded on post modern post structuralism How i ek used Lacan s theory of character structures is examined here to describe this theoretical deadlock and explain how the dominant contemporary ideologies of liberal tolerant multiculturalism and reactionary pseudo fundamentalism compete to mobilize the individual subject s unconscious drive to enjoyment The book thus emphasizes the moments in which i ek hints that Lacanian theory may describe a practice that facilitates the resolution of antagonisms that placate radical leftist politics It challenges prevalent interpretations of Lacanian ends of analysis to ultimately connect the psychoanalytic cure to the leftist project of social and political liberation The Subject of Liberation argues that if Lacan is to be useful to leftist politics then the left has to develop its own definitions of the post analytic subject and proposes one such definition developed out of Lacanian and i ekian theory
