System And Writing In The Philosophy Of Jacques Derrida:

System and Writing in the Philosophy of Jacques Derrida Christopher Johnson,1993-04-15 This is an important new critical analysis of Derrida's theory of writing based on close readings of key texts. It reveals a dimension of Derrida's thinking that has been neglected in favor of those deconstructionist clichés favored by much recent literary criticism. Christopher Johnson highlights the special character of Derrida's philosophy that comes from his contact with contemporary natural science and with systems theory. This study casts new light on an exacting set of intellectual issues facing philosophy and critical theory today. Routledge Revivals: God, Literature and Process Thought (2002) Darren Middleton,2018-02-01 Originally published in 2002 God Literature and Process Thought looks at the use of God in writing as a part of the creative advance immersed in the processes of reality and affected by events in the world. This edited collection outlines and promotes the novel view that there is much to be gained when those who value the insights of process thought encounter the many and varied writers of literature and literary theory. It also celebrates the notion of process poesis a fresh way of reflecting theologically and philosophically that takes account of literary forms and promises to transform creatively the very structure of process thought today. Writing and Difference Jacques Derrida,2021-01-27 First published in 1967 Writing and Difference a collection of Jacques Derrida's essays written between 1959 and 1966 has become a landmark of contemporary French thought. In it we find Derrida at work on his systematic deconstruction of Western metaphysics. The book's first half which includes the celebrated essay on Descartes and Foucault shows the development of Derrida's method of deconstruction. In these essays Derrida demonstrates the traditional nature of some purportedly nontraditional currents of modern thought one of his main targets being the way in which structuralism unwittingly repeats metaphysical concepts in its use of linguistic models. The second half of the book contains some of Derrida's most compelling analyses of why and how metaphysical thinking must exclude writing from its conception of language finally showing metaphysics to be constituted by this exclusion. These essays on Artaud Freud Bataille Hegel and Lvi Strauss have served as introductions to Derrida's notions of writing and difference the untranslatable formulation of a nonmetaphysical concept that does not exclude writing for almost a generation of students of literature philosophy and psychoanalysis. Writing and Difference reveals the unacknowledged program that makes thought itself possible. In analyzing the contradictions inherent in this program Derrida goes on to develop new ways of thinking reading and writing new ways based on the most complete and rigorous understanding of the old ways. Scholars and students from all disciplines will find Writing and Difference an excellent introduction to perhaps the most challenging of contemporary French thinkers challenging because Derrida questions thought as we know it. Furthermore it also represents some of the first attempts to highlight cultural dimensions of computing and philosophy which became prominent when the conference was held for the first time within the milieu of an Asian culture The First Asia Pacific Computing and Philosophy was held in Canberra Australia Hence many of the papers in the volume address this added dimension Apart from the usual problems of how computers and human lives are interconnected the papers here also discuss how computers are related to human lives as lived in a specific culture Thus the book breaks a new ground and should be of interest to a wide range of scholars and students who are interested not only on computing and philosophy generally construed but also on this exciting new dimension of how the cultures of Asia the West and others bear upon the traditional issues in computing and philosophy and on how this dimension raises some new concerns and agenda Among the topics discussed in this volume are political online forums in Saudi Arabia e democracy and structural transformation of public sphere the Buddhist informational person a glance into the lives of computerized generation in Thailand technology and journalism in the market local approaches and global potential of information ethics computer enhanced good life computer teaching ethics and many others

Jacques Derrida and the Institution of French Philosophy Vivienne Orchard,2017-12-02

Jacques Derrida 1930 2004 was unquestionably one of the most celebrated and reviled French thinkers of the last thirty years Outside France his influence in comparative literature circles through deconstruction and other ideas has been so profound that his personal role as a leader of contemporary French philosophy has been almost overlooked Perhaps because there is no equivalent in English speaking countries to the timetabling of philosophy in the French education system writers on Derrida outside France have not fully appreciated the importance of this political and cultural struggle In this ground breaking book Orchard examines a hard fought debate of great importance not only to Derrida himself but also to France's idea of what studying philosophy might mean after the student uprisings of 1968
