Taim Bilong Masta:

My Gun, My Brother August I. K. Kituai, 1998-05-01 Despite the heated competition for colonial possessions in Papua New Guinea during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries the personnel required to run an effective administration were scarce As a result the Australian colonial regime opted for a quick solution it engaged Papua New Guineans often to perform the most hazardous and most unpopular responsibilities Based on extensive interviews with former policemen written records of the time and reminiscences of colonial officials this book links events involving police villagers and government officers kiaps over a forty year period to wider issues in the colonial history of Papua New Guinea and by extension of the Pacific Islands and beyond

Defending Whose Country? Noah Riseman, 2012-12-01 In the campaign against Japan in the Pacific during the Second World War the armed forces of the United States Australia and the Australian colonies of Papua and New Guinea made use of indigenous peoples in new capacities The United States had long used American Indians as soldiers and scouts in frontier conflicts and in wars with other nations With the advent of the Navajo Code Talkers in the Pacific theater Native servicemen were now being employed for contributions that were unique to their Native cultures In contrast Australia Papua and New Guinea had long attempted to keep indigenous peoples out of the armed forces altogether With the threat of Japanese invasion however they began to bring indigenous peoples into the military as guerilla patrollers coastwatchers and regular soldiers Defending Whose Country is a comparative study of the military participation of Papua New Guineans Yolngu and Navajos in the Pacific War In examining the decisions of state and military leaders to bring indigenous peoples into military service as well as the decisions of indigenous individuals to serve in the armed forces Noah Riseman reconsiders the impact of the largely forgotten contributions of indigenous soldiers in the Second World War

Muscular Christianity and the Colonial and Post-Colonial World John J. Macaloon, 2013-09-13 This Volume explores the enormous impact the ethos of Muscular Christianity has had on modern civil society in English speaking nations and among the peoples they colonized First codified by British Christian Socialists in the mid nineteenth century explicitly religious forms of the ideology have persistently re emerged over ensuing decades secularized essentialized and normalized versions of the ethos the public school spirit the games ethic moral masculinity the strenuous life came to dominate and to spread rapidly across class status and gender lines These developments have been appropriated by the state to support imperial military and colonial projects Late nineteenth and early twentieth century apologists and critics alike widely understood Muscular Christianity to be a key engine of British colonialism This text demonstrates the need to re evaluate the entire history of Muscular Christianity comes chiefly from contemporary post colonial studies The papers explore fascinating case materials from Canada the U S India Japan Papua New Guinea the Spanish Caribbean and in Britain in a joint effort to outline a truly international post colonial sport history This book was published as a special issue of the International Journal of the History of Sport

Capital Punishment, Clemency and Colonialism in Papua New Guinea,

1954-65 Murray Chisholm, 2024-07-02 This study builds on a close examination of an archive of files that advised the Australian Commonwealth Executive on Papua New Guineans found guilty of capital offences in PNG between 1954 and 1965. These files provide telling insight into conceptions held by officials at different stages of the justice process into justice, savagery and civilisation and colonialism and Australia's role in the world. The particular combination of idealism and self-interest, liberalism and paternalism and justice and authoritarianism, axiomatic to Australian colonialism, becomes apparent and enables discussion of Australia's administration of PNG in the lead up to the acceptance of independence as an immediate policy goal. The files show Australia gathering the authority to grant mercy into the hands of the Commonwealth and then devolving it back to the territories. In these transitions, the capital case review files show the trajectory of Australian colonialism during a period when the administration was unsure of the duration and nature of its future relationship with PNG.

Islands as Crossroads Tim Curtis, 2011-01-01 This book brings together information on various disciplines from the three main island regions of the world: the Caribbean, Indian Ocean and Pacific Ocean, to explore the ways in which the peoples of small islands have lived and continue to live in their culturally diverse societies. Leading anthropologists, historians, economists, archaeologists and others provide information on the complexity and dynamics of societies in small island developing states. It reflects the outcomes of a UNESCO symposium held in the Seychelles in 2007. Publisher's description.

Name, Shame and Blame Christine Stewart, 2014-12-02 Papua New Guinea is one of the many former British Commonwealth colonies which maintain the criminalisation of the sexual activities of two groups despite the fact that the sex takes place between consenting adults in private: sellers of sex and males who have sex with males. The English common law system was imposed on the colonies with little regard for the social regulation and belief systems of the colonised and in most instances was retained and developed post Independence regardless of the infringements of human rights involved. Now the HIV pandemic has thrown a spotlight, not altogether welcome, on the sexual activities of these two groups. In Papua New Guinea, a growing body of behavioural research has focused on such matters as individual sexual partnering, condom use and awareness of HIV. My work, however, has a different purpose. I chose the terms in the title to highlight a nexus which I believe exists between the criminal law and negative attitudes of society. At an international level, the argument has been put that decriminalising sex work and sodomy will facilitate HIV epidemic management, reducing the stigma and discrimination these groups encounter and making them easier to reach. I undertook my research therefore with the aim of gaining deeper understanding of the effects the current situation of criminalisation might have on the social lives of these criminalised people today in the country generally and in Port Moresby, the capital, in particular, and whether these effects might provide evidence to support the argument for law reform. This is a rich and well researched study of the legal, social and moral issues surrounding the criminalisation of two forms of consensual sex. A very impressive piece of work, it is extensively documented, relies on a wide range of material and makes a clear and coherent argument about the place of law in producing identities.

and exclusions The attention to change over time and the complexity of the ways in which sexual behaviour is enacted and punished is a particular strength of the book Professor Sally Engle Merry Anthropology Law and Society New York University This book is an exceptional contribution to our knowledge of the nexus between the criminal law and negative attitudes of society and what effects criminalization has on the social lives of prostitutes and males who have sex with males and whether these effects might provide evidence to support the argument for law reform The author s experience of Papua New Guinea allows her to comment in depth on such matters as the United Nations human rights approach to the HIV epidemic and their call to decriminalize all sexual acts between consenting adults She shows that criminal laws with the help of the normative discourse of religion and media underpin and legitimize high levels of stigma discrimination and abuse of prostitutes and males who have sex with males The quality of the writing and general presentation are exceptional Laura Zimmer Tamakoshi Truman State University retired

Where Nets Were Cast John Garrett, 1997 Describes the exposure of island churches to brutal interlopers in World War II which foreshadowed the twilight of the missionary and colonial eras Problem Bilong Yu Reginald Kendall, 1986 Taim Bilong Masta Hank Nelson, 1982 Pacific Islands Monthly, 1983 Islands in the Clouds Isabella Tree, 1996 This is the fascinating account of Tree s journeys in the remote Highlands of Papua New Guinea and Irian Jaya one of the most dangerous regions on Earth The author travels with a PNG Highlander who introduces her to his complex traditional world a world that is changing rapidly as it encounters new ideas modern technologies and the economic and political challenges of the 20th century ISLAND ENCOUNTERS Lamont Lindstrom, Geoffrey Miles White, 1990-09-17 Pacific Linguistics, 1992 Day of Reckoning Lachlan Strahan, 2005 In this book the author weaves the facts of these crimes into a story of compelling interest It is rare that the past is brought to life with such narrative power and perceptive understanding This highly original history skilfully explores the complexities of international relations and paints a vivid portrait of people trying to cope with a confused and rapidly changing postwar world BOOKJACKET The Defining Years Brij V. Lal, 2005 End of the Line Robert F. McKillop, Michael Pearson, 1997 Papua New Guinea is commonly thought to be a land without railways At the very least railways do not immediately come to mind as a topic for historical research in Papua New Guinea Nevertheless we set out to document and record something of the history of local railways in 1971 initially as individual projects Inevitably our interest in the topic of railways brought us together and we have been working collaboratively on our research since 1980 At first the task was to identify and document the railways which have operated in Papua New Guinea To our surprise we now have records of some 150 railway lines many of them small hand pushed operations from a jetty to a copra store or around a sawmill Others have yielded fascinating stories of more substantial enterprises and the endeavours of colonial pioneers at the frontier As we brought the material together we began to realise that we not only had stories about small railway operations around the country but we also had the basis for a new look at some basic elements of Papua New Guinea economic history Through the story of railways we had identified important themes which helped us learn about the economic conditions of today from the experience of the past      Kovave,1969      Making 'Black Harvest' Bob Connolly,2005      First Contact Bob Connolly,Robin Anderson,1987 The encounter in the 1930s between Australian gold prospectors led by Michael Leahy and the highlanders of New Guinea based on the photographs Leahy took and interviews with surviving natives and visitors      Words Apart Jonathon Green,1996 From the hapless pig to the more sinister rat Jonathon Green shows how throughout history we have used words for animals diseases and parts of the body to ridicule debase and abuse anyone of a different nation race or religion
