Taiwanisation Its Origin Politics:

Taiwanisation: Its Origin And Politics George Woei Tsai, Peter Kien-hong Yu, 2001-06-21 Recent years have seen the emergence of a unique Taiwanese consciousness What this so called Taiwanisation is and how it came about are addressed in the first article The evolution of this Taiwanese consciousness and how it is perceived and presented by major political parties like the Democratic Progressive Party the Kuomintang the People First Party and the New Party are then discussed The process appears to be an irreversible one which might lead to Taiwan's self determination The second article offers a working definition of Taiwanisation It then spells out the significance of understanding Taiwanisation and the motivations of the proponents of the Taiwanisation policy A number of reasons are given as to why such a policy is necessary The authors examine the strategies and tactics in implementing the Taiwanisation policy weighing its effectiveness Beijing's reaction and the problems and prospects of pursuing this policy China's Political and Economic Trends in 2001 John Wong, Yongnian Zheng, 2001 At the beginning of the new century China's leadership is preparing the ground for a smooth transfer of power from the third generation to the fourth generation leaders Politicking among different factions has intensified as top leaders who are slated to step down after the 16th National Party Congress in 2002 jockey to put their imprint on the new power configuration How have President Jiang Zemin and Premier Zhu Rongji dealt with the leadership succession while at the same time keeping an eye on the economy What kind of power sharing will be brokered among the different factions Are the fourth generation leaders ready to take over the reins of power And will China be able to maintain high growth even as it goes through this period of power transition The articles in this publication address those issues China's Politics And Economy In 2003: Meeting The Post-congress Challenges John Wong, Yongnian Zheng, Liang Fook Lye, 2003-04-11 With the new team of Chinese leaders at the helm following the successful hosting of the 16th Party Congress in November 2002 the attention of China's scholars has now shifted to the raft of challenges that await the new leadership In the economic realm there is unlikely to be any sharp changes in the direction of economic policy making although the leadership faces a number of daunting issues such as rising urban unemployment potential rural unrest and the huge debt burden of state banks In the political arena power succession has only just begun even though leadership transition is almost complete Jiang Zemin remains highly influential in his capacity as Chairman of the Central Military Commission It is however unclear how the working relationship among the triumvirate Hu Jintao Zeng Qinghong and Wen Jiabao will unfold The jury is still out whether Hu Jintao can provide the leadership and vision to deal head on with a number of burning issues like corruption and the need for political reform Taiwan's 2001 Legislative, Magistrates And Mayors Election: Further Consolidating Democracy? John F Copper, 2002-12-17 In December 2001 Taiwan held an election that many observers said in addition to the 2000 election that resulted in opposition party leader Chen Shui bian winning the presidency consolidated its democracy This election made President Chen's party the Democratic Progressive Party DPP the largest party in the legislature and gave him an opportunity to implement his agenda President Chen had not been able to do previously due to the opposition's large legislative majority and the political gridlock that had plagued Taiwan for some months This book examines the political milieu in which the campaign was conducted the candidates party platforms and strategies the campaign and the results of the election It also assesses the domestic and international responses to the election and its political ramifications The author argues that the DPP won using questionable tactics thus diminishing its otherwise significant victory while creating doubts about the Taiwan political miracle The KMT lost badly The People First Party created by James Soong after the 2000 presidential election performed very well in this election Former president Lee Teng hui helped found a new party shortly before this election to help President Chen by drawing support away from the KMT it performed well The author concludes that the election mirrored Taiwan's new four party system which is divided into two camps While the green bloc the DPP and Lee's new party performed well the blue team the KMT and Soong's party won a majority Taiwan's party politics the author says remain in flux

When Education Meets Politics in Taiwan Ka-ho Kwok, 2017-09-13 Politics affect education particularly in transitional societies It is obvious that Taiwan's education reform and democratization share the same set of players All major educational players played a role at different stages in the electoral process striving for popular support This book applies game theoretic tools and proposes dynamic positioning as a new framework that regards Taiwan's education reform from 1994 to 2016 as the outcome of players strategic interactions instead of top down or bottom up The complex interplay is characterized by the continual adjustment of one's preferences and strategies in response to other players moves This concept helps explain how and why Taiwan's education reform was once embraced by most players cooperation but became a battlefield between different camps non cooperation soon after a change of the ruling party in 2000 It disputes various structural approaches on educational change including functionalism conflict theory globalization and theories of liberal democracy It also contributes to the field of game theoretical studies in education and the specific literature of politics social change and education reform

Taiwanese Identity from Domestic, Regional and Global Perspectives Jens Damm, Gunter Schubert, 2007 The tension between Taiwan's globalization and its ongoing identity formation is clearly visible in the economic political and societal spheres of the island republic Against this background the authors of this volume deal with the following questions To what extent has Taiwan become part of the Greater China region and in that sense a part of China How successful have Taiwan's endeavors been to escape China assert its own identity and communicate this to the international community How does Taiwanese identity connect to its integration within Greater China and beyond that is to its being part of a globalized transnational world The varied focus and range of the papers in this volume show that politically the result of the debate on Taiwan's national identity is undecided economically however Taiwan has become part of a Greater China region and cross Strait integration would thus seem to be inevitable
