

Estimating Time for Outdoor Tasks

Instructions

Objective: To help students develop estimation skills by measuring and comparing the duration of outdoor activities.

Materials

- Stopwatch or timer (one per group or pair)
- Student recording sheet (provided)
- Outdoor activities
- List of outdoor tasks (examples provided in the student recording sheet)

Procedure

- 1. Introduction
 - Begin by discussing the concept of time estimation. Ask students to share examples of activities they think take a certain amount of time.
 - Explain that they will practice measuring outdoor tasks with their stopwatches and compare their estimates with the actual time.
- 2. Task Setup
 - Organize students into pairs or small groups.
 - Provide each group with a stopwatch, a list of outdoor tasks, and their recording sheet.
 - Assign each group a specific outdoor task to measure.
- 3. Activity Instructions
 - Students practice the task just once and then record their estimates on the sheet.
 - The student in the group times the task while another completes it.
 - Once the task is completed, they record the actual time and compare it with their prediction.
- 4. Wrap-Up Discussion
 - Gather the class and discuss: "What tasks took more 'forecast'?" "What tasks were harder?" "What changes helped them more before estimating?"

Time for Outdoor Tasks

Instructions

As a student, you are to predict the time it will take to complete an outdoor task. Then, you will calculate the difference between the estimate and the actual time. This will help you understand how accurate your estimate was.

Time for Outdoor Tasks

Recording Sheet

One way of estimating time is to make a forecast. Your challenge is to make a forecast and then, measure the actual time and compare the two.

Predicted Time (seconds/minutes)	Actual Time (seconds/minutes)	Difference (Actual - Predicted)
1 min	1 min	0 min

Time for Outdoor Tasks

Recording Sheet

How accurate was your forecast? Why?

Did you make your forecast faster or slower?

How close was your forecast to the actual time?

What changes did you make to your forecast?
