Taiwan's Security In The Post Deng Xiaoping Era:

Taiwan's Security in the Post-Deng Xiaoping Era Martin L. Lasater, Peter Kien-Hong Yu, 2023-09-01 Originally published in 2000 Taiwan's Security in the Post Deng Xiaoping Era analyses the many domestic and international factors comprising Taiwan's security situation in the late 1990s and early 21st Century The security of Taiwan remains of international strategic concern and the military situation in the Taiwan Strait is increasingly volatile nearly 25 years after this book was first published This detailed study concludes that Taiwan's overall security will become increasingly dependent on external factors and that the most important contribution Taipei can make to its own security other than military preparation is political astuteness Defending Taiwan Martin Edmonds, Michael Tsai, 2013-10-18 Recent concern about mainland China's intentions towards Taiwan and more general concern about the risk of instability in the region has led to growing interest in Taiwan's military strategy in how Taiwan perceives threats to itself and in how the Taiwanese military are reacting to these perceived threats This book which includes contributions by leading Taiwanese military thinkers explores current military strategy in Taiwan and how it is evolving It discusses Taiwan's military modernisation and the implications of the recent defeat after fifty years in power of the Kuomintang Party implications which include a move away from an authoritarian garrison state culture and the beginnings of a more open debate about defence The book concludes with an overall appraisal of Taiwan's defence vision and makes recommendations on how Taiwan's defence might be enhanced

Chinese Naval Strategy in the 21st Century James R. Holmes, Toshi Yoshihara, 2012-09-10 Alfred Thayer Mahan has been called America's nineteenth century evangelist of sea power and the intellectual father of the modern US Navy His theories have a timeless appeal and Chinese analysts now routinely invoke Mahan's writings exhorting their nation to build a powerful navy Economics is the prime motivation for maritime reorientation and securing the sea lanes that convey foreign energy supplies and other commodities now ranks near or at the top of China's list of military priorities This book is the first systematic effort to test the interplay between Western military thought and Chinese strategic traditions vis vis the nautical arena It uncovers some universal axioms about how theories of sea power influence the behaviour of great powers and examines how Mahanian thought could shape China's encounters on the high seas Empirical analysis adds a new dimension to the current debate over China's rise and its importance for international relations The findings also clarify the possible implications of China's maritime rise for the United States and illuminate how the two powers can manage their bilateral interactions on the high seas Chinese Naval Strategy in the 21st Century will be of much interest to students of naval history Chinese politics and security studies Fragments of an Unfinished War Françoise Mengin, 2015-01-09 The Republic of China that retreated to Taiwan in 1949 maintains its de facto if not de jure independence yet Beijing has consistently refused formally to abandon the idea of reunifying Taiwan with China As well as growing military pressure the PRC's irredentist policy is premised on encouraging cross Straits economic integration Responding to preferential measures Taiwanese industrialists have invested massively in the PRC often relocating their businesses there. Fragments of a nation torn apart by contradictory claims these entrepreneurs are vectors of a new form of unification imposed by the mainland promoted but postponed on the island by the Nationalist Party and rejected by Taiwanese pro independence parties. Within what can be described as an unfinished civil war socio economic dynamics remain embedded in conflicts over sovereignty. Trans national actors have freed themselves from security constraints thereby benefiting economically from a reformist China and ultimately restructuring politics in Taiwan itself and in so doing relations between Beijing and Taipei. A fictitious depoliticization has governed the opening of the Sino Taiwanese border in order to postpone any resolution of the sovereignty issue. Mengin's startlingly original book highlights the competing and fragmented elements within one of the world's most intractable territorial disputes.

International Governance, Regimes, and Globalization Peter Kien-hong Yu, Emily W. Chow, Shawn S.F. Kao, 2010-04-27. In this collection International Governance Regimes and Globalization the writers explore international relations and globalization by using specific examples from Beijing and Taipei. In December 1949 when China was politically divided the People's Republic of China PRC central government was in control of most resources tangible and intangible. For that reason our unit of analysis has to be the state meaning a government or a politically organized body. With the rise of civil society at both national and international levels applying the international global governance theory should be closer to reality because we have to look at both the state and non state sponsored dimensions which are more complex and complicated. Indeed international global governance could become a new school of thought and will continue to expand as academics explore. For example neo liberalism primarily focuses on market and contract. When people buy and sell something they are in a market. In other words politics is the superstructure of economics or as Karl Marx said what prevails in economy will ultimately prevail in politics. In a sense subscribers to this school of thought are Marxian. However the study of international global governance embraces the non state sponsored dimension. Hence it is broader than that of the neo liberalism school of thought.
