Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 10 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a control group or a training group. The control group continued with their sedentary lifestyle, while the training group participated in a 10-week training program consisting of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 10-week period. The results showed that the training group had a significant decrease in HR and a significant increase in EE compared to the control group. The findings suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular and metabolic health of sedentary, middle-aged women.
