Mullins, 1890 Ghana: Rapid assessment of priority areas impacted by dry spell and district-level intervention priorities FAO, 2024-12-02 Central and northern Ghana recently experienced an unusually severe dry spell during a crucial phase of the growing season This event presents a major challenge for these regions which are heavily dependent on rainfed agriculture and have limited access to irrigation infrastructure The dry spell disproportionately impacted smallholder farmers heightening risks to food production and stability across the country's food systems The potential consequences include higher food prices and increased demand for relief from the most affected farming communities To support intervention planning a rapid field assessment was undertaken to validate geospatial and crop damage analyses and provide field based insights for agricultural partners The assessment covered nine predominantly rural regions which together account for approximately 31 percent of Ghana's population Preliminary findings revealed that food insecurity was already significant prior to the dry spell In the Upper East North East Northern and Savannah regions food insecurity rates are notably high impacting 49 percent 33 percent 31 percent and 23 percent of the population respectively Detailed geospatial findings are accessible through a StoryMap Agriculture remains the primary livelihood in these areas with near universal community engagement in farming In the Northern North East and Upper East regions 98 100 percent of communities rely on agriculture and over 87 percent of communities in Bono Savannah and Upper West are similarly engaged Ahafo also shows high agricultural participation with over 96 percent of communities involved Livestock production another key livelihood varies in prominence across regions Upper East and North East regions report high livestock activity with 71 percent and 44 percent of communities heavily engaged respectively In the Northern region 65 percent of communities engage in livestock production with 38 percent at a significant level Conversely Bono East has low livestock engagement with 88 percent of communities minimally involved A more balanced participation is observed in the Ahafo Bono and Oti regions This assessment highlights critical areas of vulnerability and provides data to inform timely and targeted interventions to address food insecurity and support agricultural livelihoods in the face of climate induced challenges A Reference Grammar of Thai Shoichi Iwasaki, Inkapirumu Puriyā Horie, 2005-03-10 A clear detailed and comprehensive guide to the grammar of the Thai language InfoWorld , 1983-05-30 InfoWorld is targeted to Senior IT professionals Content is segmented into Channels and Topic Centers InfoWorld also celebrates people companies and projects The Dictionary of Women and their imposed silence in "The Odyssey" translations Sofia Govoni, 2019-07-09 Master s Thesis from the year 2018 in the subject Interpreting Translating grade 108 University of Ferrara language English abstract The main topic of this work is the imposed silence on women in translation an activity that had always been the only intellectual activity that was considered suitable for them The first chapter wanted to define the concept of translation in all its facets and all historical and cultural tendencies Particularly it was observed that translation was suitable for women because of its intellectual inferiority and because of this was the only academical activity suitable for them But in the course of history it became just another tool at the service of the dominant part in society the male part that used it only to oppress women To affirm this all the attempts made by women to break the silence imposed to them were considered starting form the history of the feminist movement and all other ideologies that contributed to create and support the stereotypes imposed on women The second chapter analyses the first English translation of the Odyssey by the Greek poet Homer made by a woman Professor Emily Wilson In fact all the available English translations of this text were made by men that succeeded in reducing women to silence This was an innovative text and to demonstrate this the relevant passages featuring the female protagonists of the book were compared with the version by Peter Green in the attempt to find the main differences not only stylistic but also the ones given by the different gender of the translator Also it was possible to find the sexism that had already been present in the book but was reinforced in all translations Key tool for this analysis was Skopos Theory that puts in the first place the functionality of translation and most of all considers the importance of the cultural aspect in the definition of every translated text
