State Of Food Insecurity In The World 2003:

Voedselzekerheid Gabi Spitz, 2012-12-01 Wereldwijd leven er 925 miljoen wereldbewoners honger met name in sub Sahara Afrika en Azië. Er lijden 2 miljard mensen aan zogenaamde verborgen honger: een chronisch tekort aan essentiële voedingsstoffen, vitamines en mineralen zoals jodium, vitamine A en ijzer. Ondervoeding belemmert de persoonlijke ontwikkeling van mensen en vormt onder andere door verlies aan arbeidsproductiviteit een barrière voor economische ontwikkeling. Ironisch genoeg is overgewicht wereldwijd ook een steeds groter probleem: 1,5 miljard mensen lijden aan overgewicht en lopen daardoor gezondheidsrisico's. Naar verwachting zullen in 2015 meer dan 700 miljoen mensen kampen met zwaarlijvigheid en ernstig overgewicht tegenover bijna 700 miljoen mensen met honger. Verschillende experts voorspellen dat het op termijn nog moeilijker zal worden om alle wereldbewoners te voeden. Dit komt onder andere door de snelle groei van de wereldbevolking en de toenemende consumptie van vlees en eiwitrijke producten. Daarnaast is klimaatverandering een van de factoren die de voedselproductie zal belemmeren. Bovendien zullen cruciale ingrediënten voor de landbouw, zoals land, fosfor en water, steeds schaarser worden. Deze ontwikkelingen leiden tot de vraag hoe de wereldbevolking in de toekomst gevoed kan worden. Dit kennisdossier biedt een analyse van het mondiale voedselvraagstuk nu en in de toekomst.

Food and Human Rights in Development Wenche Barth Eide, 2005. The right to adequate food is firmly established in international human rights law. It is among those most cited in solemn declarations and most violated in practice. In a landmark decision the 1996 World Food Summit decided to break with the all too familiar right to food rhetoric and requested a clarification of the content of the right to food and the fundamental right of everyone to be free from hunger and the means for its implementation. Since then much effort has gone into further conceptualisation of social and cultural rights in general and the right to adequate food in particular. UN agencies, scholars, interested governments and civil society have joined forces in attempting to provide a foundation for national and international follow up of the recommendations of the World Food Summit reinforced by the Millennium Development Goals. This first of two volumes provides evidence of some of this work and gives direction for future activities to promote and protect the right to adequate food for all. It has contributions from some 15 authors who have all been directly involved from different angles in the advancement of the right to food and related human rights over the past years. Besides introducing the concept of the right to food and elaborating on its theoretical basis and meaning in development, it provides several recent examples from work both at the national and international level to apply it in practical situations and with a special view to how to go about identifying the corresponding obligations of states and complementary duties and responsibilities of non state actors and international organisations. Finally several chapters address the right to food under special circumstances and for special groups needing particular attention. The book is the first of its kind on the right to food as a human right. It is not a textbook but is intended to inform and stimulate further debate among scholars, policy makers and practitioners and activists alike on some of the major issues of concern in applying a right based approach to alleviating food insecurity hunger and malnutrition and in promoting access to and consumption of nutritionally adequate safe and culturally acceptable food on a sustainable basis for all It is now evident that with the current pace of events the goal set by the WFS and the MDG of halving poverty and hunger by 2015 will not be achieved There is a growing need to watch some of the possible effects of rapid economic globalisation and market liberalisation on food and nutrition security conditions and to promote countervailing measures to offset their most negative consequences particularly for vulnerable groups The right to food is a first test case of the extent to which the application of economic social and cultural rights can effectively exert such counterforce in an increasingly economics and market driven international climate and enhance progress towards established goals

The State of Food Insecurity in the World 2003 ,2003-01-01 This fifth edition of The State of Food Insecurity in the World details recent trends in developing countries and countries in transition It also offers an analysis of factors that have contributed to progress and setbacks in efforts to reach the World Food Summit goal

Rich Christians in an Age of Hunger Ronald J. Sider,2005-04-10 Do you want to make a true difference in the world Dr Ron Sider does He has since before he first published Rich Christians in an Age of Hunger in 1978 Despite a dramatic reduction in world hunger since then 34 000 children still die daily of starvation and preventable disease and 1 3 billion people worldwide remain in abject poverty So the professor of theology went back to re examine the issues by twenty first century standards Finding that Conservatives blame morally reprehensible individual choices and Liberals blame constrictive social and economic policy Dr Sider finds himself agreeing with both sides In this new look at an age old problem he offers not only a detailed explanation of the causes but also a comprehensive series of practical solutions in the hopes that Christians like him will choose to make a difference

World in Transition 4 German Advisory Council On Global Change (Wbgu),2013-09-13 At the start of the 21st century fighting poverty and protecting the environment are two of the most urgent challenges facing the international community Environmental changes will jeopardize people s survival to an even greater extent in the future and will hit the poor hardest To meet these challenges it will be essential to breathe new life into the partnership between industrialized and developing countries It will be equally essential to combine poverty reduction with environmental protection in an integrated policy structure spanning all levels from local to global In this report the German Advisory Council on Global Change WBGU shows that global environmental policy is a prerequisite for global poverty reduction WBGU analyses the relevant policy processes and delivers recommendations charting the way forward With its interdisciplinary approach providing a complex and systematic analysis of the poverty environment nexus WBGU s latest report breaks new ground Indira Gandhi s old convenient maxim was Poverty is the biggest polluter Put forward at the 1972 UN Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm it has been sorely misused ever since to override environmental precaution and prioritize economic development

Messer, Veteran statesmen George McGovern and Robert Dole here find common cause with theologian and activist Donald Messer in this powerful testimony and appeal to people of faith They are each convinced we can overcome global hunger now and their informed strategic impassioned thoughts encourage and equip This book brings together their disparate yet powerful voices behind a shared conviction that helping the millions who lack basic provision for food has become a religious imperative and human priority Writing for congregations and individuals of faith McGovern Dole and Messer appeal to the biblical theological and ethical foundations of action against hunger Impact of Food Aid and Developed Countries'

Agricultural Subsidies on Long-term Sustainability of Food Security in Southern Africa ,2007 The State of Food Insecurity in the World 2009 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2009 The State of Food Insecurity in the World 2009 presents the latest statistics on global underinvestment and concludes that structural problems of underinvestment have impeded progress towards the World Food Summit goal and the first Millennium Development Goal hunger reduction target This disappointing state of affairs has been exacerbated by first the food crisis and now the global economic crisis that together have increased the number of undernourished people in the world to more than one billion for the first time since 1970 This crisis is different from the crisis developing countries have experienced in the past In the context of the enormous financial pressures faced by governments the twin track approach remains an effective way to address growing levels of hunger in the world Investments in the agriculture sector especially for public goods will be critical if hunger is to be eradicated Also published in Arabic Chinese French Russian and Spanish World Hunger Series ,2006

Food and Nutrition Security in the Process of Globalization and Urbanization Uwe Kracht,Manfred Schulz,2005 The reader in two volumes examines key issues of food and nutrition security under the driving forces of globalization and urbanization The different sections and chapters present approaches to food security throughout the world in a historic as well as a systematic perspective The methods applied are both qualitative and quantitative two econometric models and one cluster analysis Although much has been written on food security a systematic treatment of a historical empirical and theoretical analytical view is a recent development and we have therefore chosen a holistic approach The first volume contains contributions of a more historical empirical nature the second volume is policy oriented Each volume is essentially self contained and can be read in its own right according to the reader s interest The current work builds on our 1999 volume on Food Security and Nutrition The Global Challenge Our new reader comprises 62 articles by 71 authors It is written for a broad audience including scientists experts consultants practitioners of development aid and students The reader constitutes one of the most comprehensive compendia of its kind Are We on Track to End Hunger? ,2004 Hunger ,2007

Globalization of Food and Agriculture and the Poor Joachim Von Braun, Eugenio Díaz-Bonilla, 2008 The world agri food system is getting increasingly globalized As the majority moves into cities and those who remain in rural areas adopt urbanized lifestyles the consumption of food is changing toward varied yet similar consumption around the world This book reflects on how these changes are affecting the poor by looking at specific factors that are driving change The chapters consider different angles to the following questions How do these changes affect the roles and powers of various actors along the food chain How relevant are these trends to the economic developments within the global agri food system and in particular to the poor segments of society How is the globalization of foods affecting human health How can international and national policy address possible adverse direct and indirect effects of globalization of the world s agri food system while strengthening positive ones The book attempts to combine both lines of inquiry focusing more specifically on the globalization of agri food systems the actual and potential impacts of these trends on the poor and the implications for food and nutrition security in developing countries Transnational Law & Contemporary Problems, 2004 Food Sovereignty Michael Windfuhr, Jennie Jonsén, 2005 Food Sovereignty is the new policy framework proposition for the governance of food and agriculture It embraces policies not only for localising the control of production and markets but also for the Right to Food people s access to and control over land water and genetic resources and for promoting the use of environmentally sustainable approaches to production It addresses the current problems of hunger and malnutrition as well as rural poverty that have become a priority challenge for international policy The latest FAO figures show the number of chronically hungry in developing countries has been increasing over the last decade at a rate of almost 5 million per year from 800 million to 852 million Yet the rules that govern food and agriculture at all levels local national and international are designed a priori to facilitate not local production and consumption but international trade In this Practical Action Working Paper Michael Windfuhr shows how the Food Sovereignty policy framework has developed to address this dilemma what the basic assumptions are analyses how Food Sovereignty relates to the current problems in rural and agricultural policies and discusses possible policy constraints to its adoption What emerges is a persuasive and highly political argument for refocusing the control of food production and consumption within democratic processes rooted in localized food systems

United Nations ... Publications Catalogue, 2004 Effects of Gender Inequality in Resource Ownership and Access on Household Welfare and Food Security in Kenya Pamela Marinda, 2006 Gender equality and empowerment of women is one of the effective ways to combat poverty hunger and disease and to stimulate development that is sustainable The government of Kenya has made efforts to promote women s active involvement in all areas of societal development in addition to ensuring that development is based on the contributions and concerns of both men and women Despite these efforts there are still clear gender inequalities in areas where both men and women's roles are visible for example in health education agriculture and in some remunerated work The aim of this paper is to assess the social and economic costs of gender discrimination these costs are incurred in suboptimal resource allocation in lost agricultural productivity and in deficient nutrition of household members This study argues that with the same access and control of productive resources by both male and female headed households in a given geographical area the levels of agricultural productivity and nutrition outcomes in male headed households should not be significantly different from those of female headed households Any difference would be attributed to differences in access to resource caused by gender discrimination The study analyses the food and nutrition situation in female and male headed households in relation to access to human capital financial capital and land The results show that human and financial capitals are the main resources that caused variations in both agricultural productivity and nutritional status in the two categories of households Despite male headed households having access to more land than the female headed households there was no significant difference in average area of land cultivated in the two categories of households Economic cost analysis of unequal access to resources by gender is done using an econometric model
