The State Vs. Elinor Norton Mary Roberts Rinehart, 1974

Improbable Fiction Jan Cohn, 2005-12-15

The mystery stories and other popular fiction of Mary Roberts Rinehart 1876 1958 brought her wealth and fame but she was much more than a writer. She was a well known American respected and loved during a time when few women achieved national influence. Her early life was conventional enough. Trained as a nurse she met and married a physician with whom she had three sons. She was living the stereotypical life of a young matron in Allegheny now part of Pittsburgh when her husband's investments evaporated during a stock market crash. She began writing as a means to supplement the family income. Rinehart became a prolific writer. In addition to her mysteries she wrote serious fiction plays poems magazine articles and editorials. Her regular contributions to the Saturday Evening Post were immensely popular and helped the magazine mold middle class taste and manners. In this fascinating account of a woman ahead of her time Cohn illuminates the tensions that pervaded Rinehart's life. Rinehart's commercial success conflicted with her domestic roles of wife and mother. She often endured periods of illness and depression but also pursued adventure including a job as the first woman war correspondent at the Belgian front during World War I. Throughout Cohn presents Rinehart as a woman of many complexities whose zest for life always prevailed.

Women of Mystery Martha Hailey DuBose, 2000-12-11

In this remarkable book Martha Hailey DuBose has given those multitudes of readers who love the mystery novel an indispensable addition to their libraries. Unlike other works on the subject Women of Mystery is not merely a directory of the novelists and their publications with a few biographical details. DuBose combines extensive research into the lives of significant women mystery writers from Anna Katherine Green and Mary Roberts Rinehart with critical essays on their work anecdotes contemporary reviews and opinions and some of the women's own comments. She takes us through the Golden Age of the British women mystery writers Christie Sayers Marsh Allingham and Tey to the leading crime novelists of today focused on the women who have become legends of the genre. And though she laments so many mysteries so little time she makes a good effort a mentioning some of the best of the rest. When DuBose writes of the lives of her principal players she relates them to their times their families their personal situations and above all to their books. She subtly points out that Sayers whose experience with the men in her life was inevitably disastrous created in Lord Peter the ideal lover one who is all that a woman desires and needs. DuBose gives us the curriculum vitae that Dorothy Sayers created to help her bring Peter Wimsey to a virtual actuality. Ngaio Marsh would give up an active presence in the theatrical world she loved but she recreated it for herself as well as her readers in many of her novels. The biographies of these women are as engrossing as the stories they wrote and Martha DuBose has shined a different intimate and intriguing light on them their works and the lives that informed those works. This book is so full of treasure it's hard to see how any mystery enthusiast will be able to do without it. And what a gift it would make for anyone on your list.
