States And Power In Africa:

States and Power in Africa Jeffrey Herbst, 2014-12-21 Theories of international relations assumed to be universally applicable have failed to explain the creation of states in Africa. There the interaction of power and space is dramatically different from what occurred in Europe. In States and Power in Africa, Jeffrey Herbst places the African state building process in a truly comparative perspective. Herbst's bold contention that the conditions now facing African state builders existed long before European penetration of the continent is sure to provoke controversy for it runs counter to the prevailing assumption that colonialism changed everything. This revised edition includes a new preface in which the author links the enormous changes that have taken place in Africa over the past fifteen years to long term state consolidation. The final chapter on policy prescriptions has also been revised to reflect the evolution of African and international responses to state failure. Ethnic

Politics and State Power in Africa Philip Roessler, 2016-12-15 Why are some African countries trapped in vicious cycles of ethnic exclusion and civil war while others experience relative peace? In this groundbreaking book, Philip Roessler addresses this question. Roessler models Africa's weak ethnically divided states as confronting rulers with a coup/civil war trap: sharing power with ethnic rivals is necessary to underwrite societal peace and prevent civil war, but it increases rivals' capabilities to seize sovereign power in a coup d'état. How rulers respond to this strategic trade-off is shown to be a function of their country's ethnic geography and the distribution of threat capabilities. It produces moving between in-depth case studies of Sudan and the Democratic Republic of the Congo based on years of field work and statistical analyses of power-sharing, coups, and civil war across sub-Saharan Africa. The book serves as an exemplar of the benefits of mixed methods research for theory building and testing in comparative politics. The Limits of State Power in Africa Georges/Sembe Bakaly, 2006-11 The State in Africa Tatah Mentan, 2025-09-28 This book critically analyzes the complex relationship between the African state and capitalist globalization. It describes in great detail the significant effects of the various historical trajectories of global capitalist expansion on the nature and functions of the African state while focusing on the present triumph of globalized neo-liberalism on the African continent. The history of the state in Africa has been misread and misinterpreted through the Eurocentric convictions of European African scholars alike. The State in Africa has since its colonial inception served as the best possible political shell for capitalism, enabling it to penetrate again, possess, and establish itself firmly and securely regardless of institutional and leadership instability at the helm. The glaring artificiality of the state in Africa, coupled with the failure of the local ruling classes to rise above the limitations of their provenance, is to blame for the myriad crises of one-party authoritarianism, violent coups, and military dictatorship. It is also to blame for the progressive alienation of the African people and the prevailing crises of identity and citizenship. Independence does not seem to have changed much as the state is still controlled by the most powerful foreign economically dominant class which has appropriated political power as well to further compound the subjection and exploitation of the oppressed Africans. Today the continent continues to grapple with underdevelopment civil wars intra state conflicts political instability state failure and outright collapse thus calling into question the viability and survivability of the Westphalian state model in Africa

Launching a New Chapter in U.S.-Africa Relations Jennifer G. Cooke, Richard Downie, 2014-02-21 Africa's changing economic landscape is prompting a shift in how U.S. policymakers view the continent. High growth rates, new technologies and a rapidly expanding consumer class are driving greater global competition for investment and access to potential export markets and the United States is recognizing that it will need to step up its game to remain relevant and influential in an increasingly crowded and competitive environment. This will mean placing a stronger emphasis on strengthening trade and investment ties and encouraging U.S. companies to take fuller advantage of expanding opportunities. Playing up these opportunities will not only serve long term U.S. commercial interests in Africa but will serve U.S. development and diplomatic objectives as well. U.S. investments done right can have long term development impacts in Africa through technology and knowledge transfer, training, systems development and partnerships. And a new, more optimistic engagement with Africa's citizens and entrepreneurs will have strong resonance with the continent's up and coming generation, creating links based on enduring mutual interest.

The Political Economy of Xenophobia in Africa Adeoye O. Akinola, 2017-11-13

This book analyzes the phenomenon of xenophobia across African countries. With its roots in colonialism which coercively created modern states through border delineation and the artificial merging and dividing of communities, xenophobia continues to be a barrier to post colonial sustainable peace and security and socio economic and political development in Africa. This volume critically assesses how xenophobia has impacted the three elements of political economy: state, economy and society. Beginning with historical and theoretical analysis to put xenophobia in context, the book moves on to country specific case studies discussing the nature of xenophobia in Nigeria, South Africa, Zambia, Ghana and Zimbabwe. The chapters furthermore explore both violent and non violent manifestations of xenophobia and analyze how state responses to xenophobia affects African states' economies and societies especially in those cases where xenophobia has widespread institutional support. Providing a theoretical understanding of xenophobia and proffering sustainable solutions to the proliferation of xenophobia in the continent, this book is of use to researchers and students interested in political science, African politics, peace studies, security and development, economics as well as policy makers working to eradicate xenophobia in Africa.

Africa at a Crossroads Jennifer G. Cooke, Richard Downie, 2014-05-08 Many of Africa's economies are at a crossroads with an unprecedented opportunity for sustained growth, structural change and accelerated development. Each will face a unique set of economic and political circumstances but key to the success of all will be building critically needed infrastructure, deepening regional integration and building a skilled workforce. Across these three challenges there are new possibilities for corporate and public actors to work in partnership to overcome barriers to investment and structural transformation This report highlights examples of progress and positive collaboration and identifies areas where African governments can do more to make the most of current opportunities

The Shadow that

Lingers Allan D Cooper,2023-06-05 Allan D Cooper demonstrates how the resistance to slavery served to unveil the nature of freedom that made possible the abolition movement and anti colonial struggles The corpus of human rights law that has evolved over the past two centuries is constructed around the negation of slavery This book analyzes how slavery mutated into racial identification that governments enforce against their own population to advance more efficient methods of discipline and control The Shadow that Lingers reveals how race is used to traumatize human beings by embodying inferiority and powerlessness even for whites that claim privilege under racialized regimes As an ideology of power race becomes contextualized to fit local cultures resulting in contradictory understandings of race from one culture to another This book focuses attention on how racial hybridity among mixed race communities poses challenges for racial purists and how such communities endeavor to construct racial identities that often differentiate themselves from being black The book concludes with an analysis of how the pursuit of freedom inevitably requires the reification of a non racial identity

Regional Economic Communities Olutayo, Akinpelu O.,Adeniran, Adebuseyi I.,2015-12-01 This book examines how the existence of overlapping regional institutions has presented a daunting challenge to the workings of various Regional Economic Communities RECs on the African continent The majority of the African countries are members of overlapping and sometimes contradictory RECs For instance in East Africa while Kenya and Uganda are both members of EAC and COMESA Tanzania which is also a member of the EAC left COMESA in 2001 to join SADC In West Africa while all former French colonies belong to ECOWAS they simultaneously keep membership of UEMOA an organization which is not recognized by the African Union AU Such multiple and confusing memberships create unnecessary duplication and dims the light on what ought to be priority Various chapters in this book have therefore sought to identify and proffer solutions to related challenges confronting the workings of the RECs in different sub regions of the African continent The discourses range from security to the stock exchange identity integration development framework labour movement and cross border relations The pattern adopted in the book involves devolution of related discussions from the general to the specific that is from the continental level to sub regional case studies Coups from Below J. Kandeh, 2004-11-26 Coups from Below represents the first major effort at studying coups carried out by the lumpen section or the subalterns of the armed forces of African states No previous study has attempted to examine coup making by those in the bottom ranks of the military as a distinct pattern of intervention in African studies Kandeh examines this pattern as broadly symptomatic of state failure especially the inability of political leaders to institutionalize power eradicate mass poverty and promote socioeconomic development Insight Turkey 2018 - Winter 2018 (Vol. 20, No.1) , Today the world system is in a transition and experiencing a deep international crisis The U S has begun to oppose the basic international institutions such as the United Nations and its subsidiary organs and specialized agencies even though most of these were established with American motivation The hegemon state the U S has been alienating most of its partners and even allies The U S governments have begun to focus on the national setting and to underestimate the international one to favor unilateral policies over multilateral ones The presidency of Donald Trump has expedited this process American rejection of providing global public goods such as international security and free trade has led to a systemic crisis The relative decline of American power coincides with the persistent rise of China Those who claim that the days of Pax Americana are numbered assert that the rise of China will determine the future of the world system China has begun to expand its influence worldwide For this purpose it has established alternative political and economic international institutions such as the Shanghai Cooperation Organization SCO and the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank AIIB Furthermore China leads the establishment of some other international organizations as well BRICS is only one of these formations challenging the political hegemony of the West led by the U S One of the most promising Chinese projects is the One Belt One Road OBOR Project aspiring to connect the East China to the West the world markets It is expected that on its completion the OBOR Project will take China to the center of the world economy and politics China has been the fastest growing economy in the world for the last thirty years Its share of the world trade has increased dramatically recording the highest share in world exports for several years China has been enjoying economic transactions with all major international actors with more than 200 partners in exports and imports However in terms of per capita income China still lags behind the advanced Western countries Furthermore according to the calculations made by the World Bank and IMF Chinese per capita income is still lower than the world average China recently began to invest in the political and military sphere in the non Western world It has military bases in its near abroad and in the African continent That is Chinese economic influence and technological leadership is supported by its political and military power In spite of the increase in Chinese military and political might it is careful not to challenge the U S and the West There are several reasons for this policy First of all China is aware of its vulnerabilities It suffers some economic and political inconsistencies and weaknesses For instance it has to fortify its regional dominance first in the South China Sea and achieve its longtime one China policy as a precondition for a possible global hegemony Second China wants to win the global rivalry without resorting to war with the current hegemon Therefore Chinese leaders refrain from opposing the American hegemony politically Even though it has introduced some international institutions the Chinese leadership does not propose a political and diplomatic alternative to the West It will take time for China to offer a full scale global leadership alternative to the world since the global hegemony requires not only economic and military power but also values and norms for cultural hegemony Lastly China is not ready to take the global responsibility since it brings high costs As long as the current American hegemony works in favor of China there is no need for China to change the course of its development In the light of these developments this issue of Insight Turkey focuses on some of the most important topics related to China s persistent rise in the international system More specifically this issue postulates on how to read and understand China s policies towards global powers i e the U S and Russia and regional powers i e India and Turkey Africa has once again returned to the attention of the global powers after being left for many years in the shadow of western politics In recent years Africa has become the center of China s public economic and military diplomacy As it may be expected China s investments in Africa are not totally welcomed by the U S Earl Conteh Morgan in his commentary focuses on the strategic rivalry between China and the U S in Africa Conteh Morgan argues that their rivalry has progressed from mild to intense with both powers increasing their activities on the continent and decreasing Africa s erstwhile marginalization Another rivalry that shapes China s foreign policies in the region is that with India Especially since the Doklam Plateau incident in mid 2017 the expectation of a possible tension between the two regional powers is ever present Taking this into consideration Bruno Ma es in his commentary ponders the economic and strategic rivalry between China and India along with a number of dimensions infrastructure border disputes sea power and trade
