England)

Stationers Company Apprentices 1641-1700:

Stationers' Company Apprentices, 1641-1700 Stationers' Company (London, England), 1974 The present list of Stationers apprentices continues those printed in Stationers Company apprentices 1605 1640 Stationer's Voice Timothy Feist, 2005-01-01 This volume provides a thorough analysis of the Company of Stationers drawing heavily on unpublished Company records Author Timothy Feist places the Stationers Co in the context of the burgeoning consumer society of the 18th century relates the almanacs content with the political developments of the post Revolution whig state He argues that the almanacs creation production distribution need to be understood through the commercial imperatives driving the Company which controlled the monopoly Feist's discussion of almanac content in the early 18th century stresses its preoccupation with order harmony unity he skillfully links the almanacs association of political with mathematical order

Lost Plays in Shakespeare's England D. McInnis, M. Steggle, 2014-10-22 Lost Plays in Shakespeare's England examines assumptions about what a lost play is and how it can be talked about how lost plays can be reconstructed particularly when they use narratives already familiar to playgoers and how lost plays can force us to reassess extant plays particularly through ideas of repertory studies Edmund Curll, Bookseller Paul Baines, Pat Rogers, 2007-01-25 Edmund Curll was a notorious figure among the publishers of the early eighteenth century for his boldness his lack of scruple his publication of work without author's consent and his taste for erotic and scandalous publications He was in legal trouble on several occasions for piracy and copyright infringement unauthorised publication of the works of peers and for seditious blasphemous and obscene publications He stood in the pillory in 1728 for seditious libel Above all he was the constant target of the greatest poet and satirist of his age Alexander Pope whose work he pirated whenever he could and who responded with direct physical revenge an emetic slipped into a drink and persistent malign caricature The war between Pope and Curll typifies some of the main cultural battles being waged between creativity and business The story has normally been told from the poet's point of view though more recently Curll has been celebrated as a kind of literary freedom fighter this book the first full biography of Curll since Ralph Straus's The Unspeakable Curll 1927 seeks to give a balanced and thoroughly researched account of Curll's career in publishing between 1706 and 1747 untangling the mistakes and misrepresentations that have accrued over the years and restoring a clear sense of perspective to Curll's dealings in the literary marketplace It examines the full range of Curll's output including his notable antiquarian series and uses extensive archive material to detail Curll's legal and other troubles For the first time what is known about this strange interesting and awkward figure is authoritatively told Historical Networks in the Book Trade Catherine Feely, John Hinks, 2016-10-14 The book trade historically tended to operate in a spirit of co operation as well as competition Networks between printers publishers booksellers and related trades existed at local regional national and international levels and were a vital part of the business of books for several centuries This collection of essays examines many aspects of the history of book trade networks in response to the recent spatial turn in history and other disciplines Contributors come from various backgrounds including history sociology business studies and English literature The essays in Part One introduce the relevance to book trade history of network theory and techniques while Part Two is a series of case studies ranging chronologically from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century Topics include the movement of early medieval manuscript books the publication of Shakespeare the distribution of seventeenth century political pamphlets in Utrecht and Exeter book trade networks before 1750 in the English East Midlands the itinerant book trade in northern France in the late eighteenth century how an Australian newspaper helped to create the Scottish public sphere the networks of the Belgian publisher Murquardt and transatlantic radical book trade networks in the early twentieth century     Stationer's Company Apprentices Donald Francis McKenzie,1978
