

CONTEXTS

The circumstances and setting that provide background information about an event, statement, or idea. The context helps you more fully understand something.

SOCIAL

Social contexts are all about society and what you need to know about your society in any situation. Society has rules around behavior and interaction.

HISTORICAL

Historical contexts are all about what was unique or specific about a certain time in history. This can include cultural and social contexts that are now in the past.

CULTURAL

Cultural contexts are all about understanding cultural expectations and norms. It is different from social context because it's specific to a culture's or subculture's values, not the values of your society as a whole.

ECONOMIC

Economic contexts describe what you need to know about the economics of a situation. For example, a company trying to expand to a new country will want to know the rules of business and supply chain quality to see if they will succeed.

Health Communication Snehendu B. Kar, Rina Alcalay, Shane Alex, 2000-10-18 This volume is based upon a review of available literature and intervention experiences selected from modern and traditional societies It is augmented by the lessons learned through the editors experience in teaching courses on health communication and foundation of health behavior in graduate public health programs at several leading universities in the United States and abroad over two decades Examples and implications are also drawn from extensive involvement in diverse health and health communication projects such as the on going community based public health project in South Central Los Angeles sponsored by UCLA and the Kellogg Foundation This particular project is designed to develop health promotion communication interventions from a multicultural perspective and provides unmatched opportunities to focus on the dynamics of a multicultural community as they affect health communication interventions

Communicating Health Mohan J. Dutta, 2008-02-04 The culture centred approach offered in this book argues that communication theorizing ought to locate culture at the centre of the communication process such that the theories are contextually embedded and co constructed through dialogue with the cultural participants The discussions in the book situate health communication within local contexts by looking at identities meanings and experiences of health among community members and locating them in the realm of the structures that constitute health The culturecentred approach foregrounds the voices of cultural members in the co constructions of health risks and in the articulation of health problems facing communities Ultimately the book provides theoretical and practical suggestions for developing a culture centred understanding of health communication processes Effective Utilization and Management of Emerging Information Technologies Information Resources Management Association.
