Specters Of The Atlantic:

Specters of the Atlantic Ian Baucom,2005-12-16 Cultural and literary study of the 1781 massacre on the slaveship Zong for the insurance money and the aftereffects of the event on the development of modernity     The Specter and the Speculative Mae G. Henderson, Jeanne Scheper, Gene Melton, 2024 The Specter and the Speculative examines how historical subjects and texts within the African Diaspora are re fashioned re animated and re articulated as well as parodied nostalgicized and defamiliarized The essays by emergent and established scholars explore how living archives circulate and haunt the popular imagination engendering afterlives and liberating prior narratives from their original context

Postcolonial Theory and International Relations Sanjay Seth, 2013 What can postcolonialism tell us about international relations What can international relations tell us about postcolonialism In recent years postcolonial perspectives and insights have challenged our conventional understanding of international politics Postcolonial Theory and International Relations is the first book to provide a comprehensive and accessible survey of how postcolonialism radically alters our understanding of international relations Each chapter is written by a leading international scholar and looks at the core components of international relations theories the nation geopolitics international law war international political economy sovereignty religion nationalism Empire etc through a postcolonial lens In so doing it provides students with a valuable insight into the challenges that postcolonialism poses to our understanding of global politics     Fugitive Life Stephen Dillon, 2018-06-07 During the 1970s in the United States hundreds of feminist queer and antiracist activists were imprisoned or became fugitives as they fought the changing contours of U S imperialism global capitalism and a repressive racial state In Fugitive Life Stephen Dillon examines these activists communiqu s films memoirs prison writing and poetry to highlight the centrality of gender and sexuality to a mode of racialized power called the neoliberal carceral state Drawing on writings by Angela Davis the George Jackson Brigade Assata Shakur the Weather Underground and others Dillon shows how these activists were among the first to theorize and make visible the links between conservative law and order rhetoric free market ideology incarceration sexism and the continued legacies of slavery Dillon theorizes these prisoners and fugitives as queer figures who occupied a unique position from which to highlight how neoliberalism depended upon racialized mass incarceration In so doing he articulates a vision of fugitive freedom in which the work of these activists becomes foundational to undoing the reign of the neoliberal carceral state     African Migrants, European Borders, and the Problem with Humanitarianism P. Khalil Saucier, Tryon P. Woods, 2024-06-10 African Migrants European Borders and the Problem with Humanitarianism presents a probing examination of the contemporary migrant crisis in the Mediterranean Basin By centering our analysis on how racial slavery has shaped European democratic culture its abolitionist traditions and the global structures of capital accumulation P Khalil Saucier and Tryon P Woods reveal and confront how contemporary discourse on the migrant crisis displaces Black sovereign mobility Their inquiry into the modern world s culture of politics investigates freedom of movement discourse's ostensible confrontation with border policing the memorializing of Black migrant deaths by artists and advocates and the visual imagery of a cosmopolitan and multicultural Europe as conceived by filmmakers in response to the migrant crisis as variants of a slaveholding culture instantiated in the early Mediterranean and Atlantic worlds. This analysis allows the authors to formulate a new critical framework for analysis of both the problems of contemporary migration and borders and the leading prescriptions on offer from analysts, advocates and policy makers in order to develop alternate ways of conceptualizing global society

The American Historical Review John Franklin Jameson, Henry Eldridge Bourne, Robert Livingston Schuyler, 2009

Jennifer Frangos, Cristobal Silva, 2010 The central axiom of Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century is that the classroom functions as a site for research and collaboration not only as a space that reflects the research of individual teacher scholars but as a generative site to put ideas, theories and methodologies into play. Whereas transatlanticism has transformed research practices over the last decade the present collection is concerned with exploring what this transformation looks like in the classroom and how the classroom continues to shape research practices in the field.

Contributors address issues such as how the traffic in ideas, people and commodities between Europe, Africa and the New World are considered in classroom settings, how inter and intra departmental collaborations reshape our approaches to teaching the eighteenth century, how and why Transatlantic Studies can function as an introduction to college study and how it can help more advanced students to revise their notions of nation, place and identity. By now there are a number of anthologies available to help instructors determine what transatlantic material to teach but none that engage why and how to teach it or what teaching it can do for us, our students and our profession. Rather than simply providing reading lists or a collection of anecdotes about lesson plans, Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century emphasizes theorizing critical engagements with interdisciplinary focus on and the transformative potential of Transatlantic Studies. The primary market for Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century is university, college and community college professors, researchers and students with three specific subgroups: 1. Teachers new to Transatlantic Studies. Teachers coming to Transatlantic Studies for the first time will find both suggestions for materials or topical units to be integrated into existing courses e.g. a unit on transatlantic exchange that could figure in an eighteenth century literature survey course and ideas for developing new courses altogether. 2. Teachers already teaching and/or researching in the field of Transatlantic Studies. Such scholars will find material to broaden their approach to familiar courses and subjects, inter or cross disciplinary focus, new texts, successful clusterings of texts or themes or approaches and ideas for team teaching or linking courses with other faculty. 3. Teachers involved in Transatlantic Studies programs especially those that focus on contemporary Post WWII context e.g. at the University of Dundee, the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and the University of Birmingham. Teaching the Transatlantic Eighteenth Century will provide historical context for current geopolitical studies perspective on the dynamics
