British Privateering Voyages of the Early

Eighteenth Century Tim Beattie, 2015 The story of hugely ambitious and risky long-distance private voyages, only one of which brought huge returns for investors. The three great privateering expeditions into the South Sea, which set out respectively in 1703 led by William Dampier, in 1708 led by Woodes Rogers, and in 1719 led by George Shelvocke, were costly and ambitious long-distance voyages carrying great risk for their investors but promising great reward. This book tells the story of the voyages and their impact. It argues that far from being anachronistic activities more in keeping with an earlier age as some scholars have asserted, the voyages were significant events and had a huge impact on politicians influencing future maritime and naval strategy, on investors swelling enthusiasm for the South Sea Company which ended in the disastrous Bubble, and in literature where the narratives of the voyages became an important source for some of the greatest literature of the period including Robinson Crusoe, Gulliver's Travels, and The Rime of the Ancient Mariner. The book provides a great deal of original detail about the voyages including the difficulties of undertaking such lengthy expeditions, unrest among the crews, and financial details of investments and returns and losses. Tim Beattie completed his doctorate at the University of Exeter The Speedwell Voyage Kenneth Poolman,2000 This tale of real life adventure on the high seas brings readers back to 1718 when the 22 gun privateer Speedwell set sail under the command of George Shelvoke A Royal Navy veteran recalls the mutinies battles storms and other adversities with authentic period detail and rich characterizations
