Tea Life Tea Mind:

Tea Life, Tea Mind Sōshitsu Sen (XV), 1981 The understanding of the deep and vital connection between Japanese art and the Way of Tea is a prerequisite for the appreciation of Japanese culture in general. Here for the first time in English a tea master tells how he was prepared from childhood to master the spiritual, scholastic and technical aspects of the Way of Tea and became the leader of more than two million practitioners. The book's intimate style leads the reader to an understanding of the spirit, joy and discipline of tea.

Tea Life Tea Mind, Tea Life, Tea Mind Soshitsu Sen, 1979 In this text Soshitsu Sen, the head of a Japanese school of tea, tells how he mastered the Way of Tea.

The Japanese Arts and Self-Cultivation Robert E. Carter, 2007-11-08 It is through the practice of the arts and not through rules or theory that moral and spiritual values are taught in Japan. Author Robert E. Carter examines five arts or ways in Japan: the martial art of aikido, Zen landscape gardening, the Way of Tea, the Way of Flowers, and pottery making. Each art is more than a mere craft; each takes as its goal not just the teaching of ethics but the formation of the ethical individual. Transformation is the result of diligent practice and each art recognizes the importance of the body. Training the mind as well as the body results in important insights, habits, and attitudes that involve the whole person, both body and mind. This fascinating book features the author's interviews with masters of the arts in Japan and his own experiences with the arts, along with background on the arts and ethics from Japanese philosophy and religion. Ultimately, the Japanese arts emerge as a deep cultural repository of ideal attitudes and behavior which lead to enlightenment itself.

Moral Agency in Eastern and Western Thought Jonathan Jacobs, Heinz-Dieter Meyer, 2024-07-30 This volume explores how individuals use moral agency to craft the moral dispositions and moral capabilities needed for living well lived lives. It draws on Eastern and Western philosophical and ethical traditions to formulate and address key issues concerning character development and moral agency. In both Eastern and Western traditions, the complexities of shaping an individual's moral agency focus on sustained processes of inner self cultivation. The chapters in this volume highlight the ways in which one is to manage and direct one's desires and aspirations, and what is to count as the source of guidance for a well lived life. They engage with key figures and traditions in the history of Eastern and Western philosophy, including Confucian, Buddhist, and Western sources from Aristotle to Kant. The juxtaposition of sources from the different parts of the world highlights striking similarities and significant contrasts, and provides rich conceptual resources for further exploration of these issues. The volume provides a broader, deeper pursuit of central issues of moral psychology and ethics in ways that highlight the inexhaustible resources in these traditions. The focus on character is a way to draw together perspectives on ethical life theories of human agency, views of fundamental life guiding values and relations between individuals and society, and how persons see their place in the world.

Moral Agency in Eastern and Western Thought will appeal to scholars and advanced students working on virtue ethics, moral psychology, comparative philosophy, and history of philosophy.
