Story Of Alchemy:

The Story of Alchemy and Early Chemistry (The Story of Early Chemistry) John Maxson Stillman,1960      The Story of Alchemy and the Beginnings of Chemistry Matthew Moncrieff Pattison Muir,1903      The Story of Alchemy and the Beginnings of Chemistry M. M. Pattison Muir,2019-11-19 In The Story of Alchemy and the Beginnings of Chemistry M M Pattison Muir presents a comprehensive exploration of the evolution of alchemical thought and its pivotal transition into the scientific discipline of chemistry. This scholarly work meticulously traces the historical interplay between mystical theories and emerging empirical methods, offering a rich literary tapestry that blends historical narrative with scientific inquiry. Muir utilizes a clear, accessible style while engaging deeply with figures and ideas from antiquity through the Renaissance, allowing readers to appreciate the profound transformations that shaped modern scientific understanding. M M Pattison Muir was a prominent Scottish chemist and historian of science whose academic pursuits and interests in the philosophical underpinnings of science undoubtedly influenced his writing. His unique perspective as both a scientist and a historian equips him to address the complexities surrounding the transition from alchemy to chemistry, drawing on extensive scholarly research and his background in both fields. Muir's dual expertise allows for an insightful discourse on the cultural and intellectual currents that drove this scientific revolution. This book is highly recommended for anyone interested in the historical foundations of scientific thought, as well as for students and scholars seeking a nuanced understanding of the origins and development of chemistry. Muir's engaging narrative style will captivate general readers while providing substantial insights for academics, making it an invaluable addition to the library of enthusiasts of the history of science.

The Story of Alchemy and the Beginnings of Chemistry ,2004      The Story of Alchemy and the Beginnings of Chemistry M. M. Pattison Muir,2017-06-03 CHAPTER I THE EXPLANATION OF MATERIAL CHANGES GIVEN BY THE GREEK THINKERS For thousands of years before men had any accurate and exact knowledge of the changes of material things they had thought about these changes regarded them as revelations of spiritual truths built on them theories of things in heaven and earth and a good many things in neither and used them in manufactures arts and handicrafts especially in one very curious manufacture wherein not the thousandth fragment of a grain of the finished article was ever produced. The accurate and systematic study of the changes which material things undergo is called chemistry we may perhaps describe alchemy as the superficial and what may be called subjective examination of these changes and the speculative systems and imaginary arts and manufactures founded on that examination. We are assured by many old writers that Adam was the first alchemist and we are told by one of the initiated that Adam was created on the sixth day being the 15th of March of the first year of the world certainly alchemy had a long life for chemistry did not begin until about the middle of the 18th century. No branch of science has had so long a period of incubation as chemistry. There must be some extraordinary difficulty in the way of disentangling the steps of those changes wherein substances of one kind are produced from substances totally unlike them.

To inquire how those of acute intellects and much learning regarded such occurrences in the times when man's outlook on the world was very different from what it is now ought to be interesting and the results of that inquiry must surely be instructive. If the reader turns to a modern book on chemistry for instance The Story of the Chemical Elements in this series he will find at first superficial descriptions of special instances of those occurrences which are the subject of the chemist's study. He will learn that only certain parts of such events are dealt with in chemistry more accurate descriptions will then be given of changes which occur in nature or can be produced by altering the ordinary conditions and the reader will be taught to see certain points of likeness between these changes he will be shown how to disentangle chemical occurrences to find their similarities and differences and gradually he will feel his way to general statements which are more or less rigorous and accurate expressions of what holds good in a large number of chemical processes finally he will discover that some generalisations have been made which are exact and completely accurate descriptions applicable to every case of chemical change. But if we turn to the writings of the alchemists we are in a different world. There is nothing even remotely resembling what one finds in a modern book on chemistry. Here are a few quotations from alchemical writings. It is necessary to deprive matter of its qualities in order to draw out its soul. Copper is like a man it has a soul and a body the soul is the most subtle part that is to say the tinctorial spirit. The body is the ponderable material terrestrial thing endowed with a shadow. After a series of suitable treatments copper becomes without shadow and better than gold. The elements grow and are transmuted because it is their qualities not their substances which are contrary. Stephanus of Alexandria about 620 A.D.
