Story Of Earth Man:

Prince of Peril Otis Adelbert Kline, 2011-08-03 Sequel to Planet of Peril the story of Rorgen Takkor's adventures on Venus Rorgen Takkor born on Mars transferred to Earth for a decade and finally finding his career and place on Venus excerpt Good bye men and good luck to you My awakening after I lay down on the cot in Dr Morgan's observatory was quite sudden and startling It seemed that not more than a few seconds had elapsed since I had heard the doctor's parting words to Grandon and myself I opened my eyes and sat up abruptly with an inexplicable sense of impending danger My first glimpse of my surroundings convinced me that I had indeed arrived on Venus The magnificent riot of vegetation surrounding me vegetation the like of which I had not seen on Mars the red barren planet of my birth nor on Earth the more recent planet of my adoption was sufficient evidence I was seated on a bank of soft violet colored moss which sloped gently to a limpid pool at my feet The feathery fronds of a giant bush fern arched above my head some of them dipping to the surface of the water where they were snapped at from time to time by playful grotesque multi colored amphibians I was dressed in garments of shimmering scarlet material There was a broad golden chain belt about my waist with a jeweled clasp in front Riveted to this belt on the right side was an oblong instrument about two feet in length with a button near the upper end a small lever on the side and a tiny hole in the lower end I had no idea what it was for but I recognized the weapon which hung at my left side as it resembled a scimitar As I was examining the ruby studded hilt of this beautiful weapon a noise at my left attracted my attention Cautiously without turning my head I glanced from the corners of my eyes across a stretch of shrubbery to where a high wall of black stone surrounded this estate and hid the country beyond Just on the other side of the wall a tall fern tree spread its mighty fronds It must have been the cracking of one of these that had attracted my attention for a heavy set individual with a coarse red beard cut off square below the chin had climbed out on it to a point where it would no longer sustain his weight in an effort to reach the top of the wall Someone in the shrubbery quite near me called a whispered warning to him or such I took it to be for the language was unknown to me and I could only judge by the tones The huge intruder was much more agile than he appeared for he flung an arm over the top of the wall and drew himself up with catlike quickness As he struck the wall there was a metallic clank which I saw as soon as he came into full view was from an edged weapon at his side quite like my own but with a less ornate hilt and broader blade As soon as the red bearded man reached the top of the wall the one who had whispered from the bushes cautiously stood up He was smaller and more wiry than the first and his beard which was iron gray in color was trimmed in the same manner Red beard tiptoed stealthily along the top of the wall glancing toward me from time to time as if fearful that I would hear him or turn toward him Then he leaned out caught his fingers in a tall cone shaped growth swung his sandaled feet out and descended I wondered if it could be possible that these two prowlers were bent on injury to me a total stranger on Venus Then it dawned on me that they could easily be mortal enemies of the prince with whom I had exchanged bodies and that I so far as their knowledge went was that prince
