Treason and the State D. Alan Orr, 2002-06-13 This study traces the transition of treason from a personal crime against the monarch to a modern crime against the impersonal state It consists of four highly detailed case studies of major state treason trials in England beginning with that of Thomas Wentworth first Earl of Strafford in the spring of 1641 and ending with that of Charles Stuart King of England in January 1649 The book examines how these trials constituted practical contexts in which ideas of statehood and public authority legitimated courses of political action that might ordinarily be considered unlawful or at least not within the compass of the foundational statute of Edward III The ensuing narrative reveals how the events of the 1640s in England challenged existing conceptions of treason as a personal crime against the king his family and his servants and pushed the ascendant parliamentary faction towards embracing an impersonal conception of the state that perceived public authority as completely independent of any individual or group created the Irish theatre reflecting the preoccupations and prejudices of the aristocrats and courtiers clustered around Dublin Castle This was a political theatre involved in outlining and defining its own society The playwrights were engaged in leading opinion presenting alternative realities and forging the national conscience Early Irish theatre was the Anglo Irish talking to themselves as the playwrights engaged the ruling class in a dialogue as to how the country should be ordered As the Ascendancy lost or relinquished control over the theatre the image presented by the playwrights became more unflattering and dismissive This work studies how this portrait of Irish society and its rulers was encoded and evolved in the plays of the three centuries from 1600 to the foundation of the Abbey Theatre It shows how the plays traced the continually mutating Ascendancy the growing self consciousness and national self awareness and a developing class consciousness among Irish playwrights     History of England for beginners Arabella Burton Fisher,1887     History of England for Beginners Arabella Burton Buckley,1887     Oxford Dictionary of National Biography: Chandler-Cleeve Henry Colin Gray Matthew,Brian Harrison,2004 55 000 biographies of people who shaped the history of the British Isles and beyond from the earliest times to the year 2002
