Strategic Assessment In War:

Strategic Assessment in War Scott Sigmund Gartner, 1997 How do military organizations assess strategic policy in war In this book Scott Gartner develops a theory to explain how military and government leaders evaluate wartime performance how much they change strategies in response to this evaluation and why they are frequently at odds when discussing the success or failure of strategic performance Blending history decision theory and mathematical modeling Gartner argues that military personnel do reevaluate their strategies and that they measure the performance of a strategy through quantitative dominant indicators But different actors within a government use different indicators of success some will see the strategy as succeeding when others see it as failing because of their different dominant indicators Gartner tests his argument with three case studies the British shift to convoys in World War I following the German imposition of unrestricted submarine warfare the lack of change in British naval policy in the Battle of the Atlantic following the German introduction of Wolf Packs in World War II and the American decision to deescalate in Vietnam after the Tet Offensive He also tests his approach in a nonwar situation analyzing the Carter Administration's decision to launch the hostage rescue attempt In each case his dominant indicator model better predicts the observed behavior than either a standard organization or an action reaction approach

Strategic Assessment ..., 1999 Shaping Strategy Risa Brooks, 2008-04-13 Introduction The significance of strategic assessment Explaining variation in strategic assessment Egypt in the mid 1960s Egypt in the 1970s Britain and Germany and the First World War Pakistan and Turkey in the late 1990s U.S. postconflict planning for the 2003 Iraq War Conclusion Findings and implications

Strategic Assessment National Defense University. Institute for National Strategic Studies, 1995 Strategic Assessment, 1997 World View Steven Metz, Earl H. Tilford, 1994 Every year the analysts at the Strategic Studies Institute prepare current strategic assessments for their particular areas of interest These assessments are the bedrock of the annual SSI Study Program This year's assessments seem especially crucial as the strategic situation throughout the world is far more complex and fraught with danger than many may realize The dramatically altered world of the post cold war period is not the peaceful and tranquil scene many had longed for and thought had indeed arrived From the Danube eastward along the southern boundaries of what used to be the Soviet Union ethnic conflict is rampant Russia remains very much an enigma wrapped in a riddle but as always Russian national interests are paramount in Kremlin thinking While there are those in the Middle East who earnestly seek peace there are others who are determined to support old hatreds and the policies that issued from them In the Far East North Korea has resisted U.N. demands to inspect its nuclear production facilities China is modernizing its military forces and Japan continues to seek new markets In this dynamic international setting a technological revolution is propelling many nations the United States being foremost among them from the industrial age into the information age The implications for military force structures and strategies are as enormous as they are uncertain Strategic Assessment 1999, 1999 Strategic Assessment in War Scott Sigmund Gartner, 1992 Asia-Pacific David Lai, 2013 Dr David Lai provides a timely assessment of the geostrategic significance of Asia Pacific His monograph is also a thought provoking analysis of the U S strategic shift toward the region and its implications Dr Lai judiciously offers the following key points First Asia Pacific which covers China Northeast Asia and Southeast Asia is a region with complex currents On the one hand there is an unabated region wide drive for economic development that has been pushing Asia Pacific forward for decades On the other this region is troubled with aside from many other conflicts unsettled maritime disputes that have the potential to trigger wars between and among Asia Pacific nations Second on top of these mixed currents China and the United States compete intensely over a wide range of vital interests in this region For better or for worse the U S China relationship is becoming a defining factor in the relations among the Asia Pacific nations Third the U S strategic shift toward Asia Pacific is as President Obama puts it not a choice but a necessity Although conflicts elsewhere especially the ones in the Middle East continue to draw U S attention and consume U S foreign policy resources the United States is turning its focus toward China and Asia Pacific Fourth in the mid 2000s the United States and China made an unprecedented strategic goodwill exchange and agreed to blaze a new path out of the tragedy that often attends great power transition Fifth at this time of U S strategic reorientation and military rebalancing toward Asia Pacific the most dangerous consideration is that Asia Pacific nations having disputes with China can misread U S strategic intentions and overplay the U S card to pursue their territorial interests and challenge China Finally territorial dispute is becoming an urgent issue in the Asia Pacific Asia-Pacific David Lai, 2013 This monograph provides a timely assessment of the geostrategic significance of Asia Pacific and offers as a thought provoking analysis of the U S strategic shift toward the region and its implications with several key points First Asia Pacific which covers China Northeast Asia and Southeast Asia is a region with complex currents On the one hand there is an unabated region wide drive for economic development that has been pushing Asia Pacific forward for decades On the other this region is troubled with aside from many other conflicts unsettled maritime disputes that have the potential to trigger wars between and among Asia Pacific nations Second on top of these mixed currents China and the United States compete intensely over a wide range of vital interests in this region For better or for worse the U S China relationship is becoming a defining factor in the relations among the Asia Pacific nations Third the U S strategic shift toward Asia Pacific is as President Obama puts it not a choice but a necessity Although conflicts elsewhere especially the ones in the Middle East continue to draw U S attention and consume U S foreign policy resources the United States is turning its focus toward China and Asia Pacific Fourth in the mid 2000s the United States and China made an unprecedented strategic goodwill exchange and agreed to blaze a new path out of the tragedy that often attends great power transition Fifth at this time of U S strategic reorientation and military rebalancing toward Asia Pacific the most dangerous consideration is that Asia Pacific nations having disputes with China can misread U S strategic intentions and overplay the U S card to pursue their territorial interests and challenge China Finally territorial dispute is becoming an urgent issue in the Asia Pacific

Strategic Analysis ,1988-03 Strategic Assessment (1997) Hans Binnendijk,Patrick L. Clawson,1997-10 This Assessment is aimed at policymakers analysts and members of the public who want a serious summary of the threats facing the U S in the next decade Contents major powers Russia Europe China Japan North America significant regional contingencies Persian Gulf Korean peninsula Arab Israel conflict India Pakistan proliferation troubled states Balkans Sub Saharan Africa Middle Eastern radicalism transnational problems international terrorism international crime refugees migration and population force structure threat assessment key military missions force structure Illustrated

Theory of War and Strategy J. Boone Bartholomees (jr.),2008 Bernard Brodie and the Foundations of American Nuclear Strategy Barry Howard Steiner,1991 Steiner analyzes how and why Brodie s understanding of weapons of unparalleled explosive force led him to posit the need for revolutionary strategic thinking in broadminded analytic method and in the focus upon cities as nuclear targets He shows the tremendous effect Brodie s work had on the intellectual climate in which policy is determined particularly in his frequent combatting of conventional wisdom

Strategic Analysis of Auctions Robert B. Wilson,1988 World View Earl H. Tilford,1997 The analysts at the Strategic Studies Institute SSI assess the strategic equation They address those issues and factors that will affect U S national security strategy over the next 12 18 months The strategic context in 1997 will be similar to that of 1996 In that it remains complex and uncertain This year the way the analysts assess the world of the 21st century is even more important because the Army along with the other services are engaged in the congressionally mandated Quadrennial Defense Review QDR These conceptions of the future have implications not only for Force XXI and Army XXI but also for the kind of Army that will serve the nation when Army XXI systems near obsolescence in 15 20 years Getting the strategic context about right is important because the Army After Next although highly capable will also be small by comparison to those forces of only a few years past Furthermore decisions made in 1997 as to weapons development and force structure will be evident in the Army of 2010 2015

Naval War College Review Naval War College (U.S.),1998 Assessing War Leo J. Blanken,Hy Rothstein,Jason J. Lepore,2015-12-15 Today s protracted asymmetrical conflicts confuse efforts to measure progress often inviting politics and wishful thinking to replace objective evaluation In Assessing War military historians social scientists and military officers explore how observers have analyzed the trajectory of war in American conflicts from the Seven Years War through the war in Afghanistan Drawing on decades of acquired expertise the contributors examine wartime assessment in both theory and practice and through alternative dimensions of assessment such as justice and proportionality the war of ideas and economics This group of distinguished authors grapples with both conventional and irregular wars and emerging aspects of conflict such as cyberwar and nation building that add to the complexities of the modern threat environment The volume ends with recommendations for practitioners on best approaches while offering sobering conclusions about the challenges of assessing war without politicization or self delusion Covering conflicts from the eighteenth century to today Assessing War blends focused advice and a uniquely broad set of case studies to ponder vital questions about warfare s past and its future The book includes a foreword by Gen George W Casey Jr USA Ret former chief of staff of the US Army and former commander Multi National Force Iraq Naval War College Review ,2008
