The Fraticides:

Kazantzakis, Volume 2 Peter Bien, 2010-07-01 Putting Greek writer Nikos Kazantzakis's vast output into the context of his lifelong spiritual quest and the turbulent politics of twentieth century Greece Peter Bien argues that Kazantzakis was a deeply flawed genius not always artistically successful but a remarkable figure by any standard. This is the second and final volume of Bien's definitive and monumental biography of Kazantzakis 1883-1957. It covers his life after 1938 the period in which he wrote Zorba the Greek and The Last Temptation of Christ the novels that brought him his greatest fame. A demonically productive novelist poet playwright travel writer autobiographer and translator Kazantzakis was one of the most important Greek writers of the twentieth century and the only one to achieve international recognition as a novelist. But Kazantzakis's writings were just one aspect of an obsessive struggle with religious political and intellectual problems. In the 1940s and 1950s a period that included the Greek civil war and its aftermath Kazantzakis continued this engagement with undiminished energy despite every obstacle producing in his final years novels that have become world classics. The Fraticides Nikos Kazantzakis, 1964. The Fraticides is about internecine strife in a village in the Epirus during the Greek civil war of the late 1940s. Many of the villagers including Captain Drakos son of the local priest Father Yanaros have taken to the mountains and joined the Communist rebels. It is Holy Week and with murder death and destruction everywhere Father Yanaros feels that he himself is bearing the sins of the world.

Trees in Nineteenth-Century English Fiction Anna Burton, 2021-03-28 This is a book about a longstanding network of writers and writings that celebrate the aesthetic socio political scientific ecological geographical and historical value of trees and tree spaces in the landscape and it is a study of the effect of this tree writing upon the novel form in the long nineteenth century. Trees in Nineteenth-Century English Fiction The Silvicultural Novel identifies the picturesque thinker William Gilpin as a significant influence in this literary and environmental tradition. Remarks on Forest Scenery 1791 is formed by Gilpin's own observations of trees forests and his New Forest home specifically but it is also the product of tree stories collected from travellers and historians that came before him. This study tracks the impact of this accumulating arboreal discourse upon nineteenth century environmental writers such as John Claudius Loudon Jacob George Strutt William Howitt and Mary Roberts and its influence on varied dialogues surrounding natural history agriculture landscaping deforestation and public health. Building upon this concept of an ongoing silvicultural discussion the monograph examines how novelists in the realist mode engage with this discourse and use their understanding of arboreal space and its cultural worth in order to transform their own fictional environments. Through their novelistic framing of single trees clumps forests ancient woodlands and man made plantations Jane Austen Elizabeth Gaskell and Thomas Hardy feature as authors of particular interest. Collectively in their environmental representations these novelists engage with a broad range of silvicultural conversation in their writing of space at the beginning middle and end of the nineteenth century. This book will be of great interest to students researchers and academics working in the
